Bromfield Sees Menace to U. S., Extending Even to Mansfield, In Franco Sweep

By LOUIS BROMFIELD

BARCELONA has fallen, but the tragedy is that it has solved nothing. The destruction which accompanies it serves no purpose. It settles nothing, not even the civil war inside Spain.

In all the discussion and misinformation which has clouded the issue of the war in Spain, two things, it seems to me, have remained unnoticed or have been forgotten. One is the fact that the government of Spain was duly elected by a large majority of the people; the other that so long as there is a German or an Italian in Spain there can be no peace in Europe or in the world—unless the British Empire chooses to lie down and die.

Despite the fall of Barcelona, the war on the Madrid front will continue.

EDITOR'S NOTE—Louis Bromfield, Mansfield-born novelist and author of the accompanying article, is peculiarly well qualified to comment on the significance of the fall of Barcelona and the imminent complete triumph of the Franco forces in Spain. A resident of France for 15 years, he has been a close student of European affairs. He has set down his views of the Spanish situation and its possible consequences in this exclusive article, written especially for The News-Journal.

Even if Madrid and the rest of Spain falls to Franco with his cohorts of Moors and Germans and Italians, the civil war will not be ended.

It will go underground and is certain to break out again openly, within a few months, among the Spanish people themselves.

I have never found myself able to admire a man who brings in Moors and foreign troops to subdue his own people. We might take as a parallel the supposition that the South, fighting against the constituted federal government during our own Civil war, had brought in German and Italian troops, and had imported immense quantities of war materials from enemy countries. The two cases are singularly parallel.

But in Spain it is even worse than that; Franco uses foreign troops as policemen to keep in order his own country-people behind his lines. It must be remembered that without the intervention of the Fascist-Nazi countries, Franco would have been defeated and annihilated within a few weeks. If the Fascist-Nazi elements quit Spain, the war will break out again and Franco, unaided, will be promptly defeated.

But more dangerous and more threatening to ourselves is the virtual certainty that Germany and Italy have no intention of quitting Spain.

Mussolini once or twice has said that he means to withdraw Italian troops from Spain as soon as Franco gains the victory. Well, Mussolini and Hitler have made promises before and not once

FLASHES From The Wires

Press-Time Bulletins In Tabloid Style On Latest News of World

—(AP-UP-INS)—

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A public hearing was ordered today on President Roosevelt's appointment of Thomas R. Amlie, Wisconsin progressive, to the interstate commerce commission.

PARIS—(UP)—Former Heavyweight Champion Max Schmeling, who sails on the Normandie tomorrow, said today he did not intend to start a ring comeback in the United States. "It will be a short trip combining business with pleasure," Max said.

LONDON—(AP)—The British and French governments today signed an agreement presenting about $37,360,000 to Czechoslovakia as an outright gift and lending her another $35,000,000. to use in caring for refugees.

CHICAGO—(INS)—Four dapper bandits, armed with revolvers, today herded seven employes of a north side Chicago jewelry company into a vault, systematically looted the showcases of rings, watches, and other jewelry, and escaped. While two of the bandits guarded the employes, the other two dumped loot with an estimated value of $25,000 into a large cardboard carton.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Roosevelt said today that United States aircraft manufacturers had agreed, with this government's knowledge, to supply France with an undesignated number of airplanes.

CALLS BRITISH CABINET

Chamberlain, Siding Strongly With France, Prepares for Study of New Problem.

(Compiled From Latest Cables.)

The powers of Europe girded today for another showdown, as a result of the fall of Barcelona, over the balance of power in the Mediterranean—and perhaps in the entire continent.

As the forces of Generalissimo Francisco Franco took over the nationalist capital and proclaimed martial law, these developments took place:

1. The French chamber of deputies voted 609 to 0 for Premier Edouard Daladier's national defense policy, designed to make France the equal of any power in Europe.

2. Italian students marched through the streets of Rome, shouting "Down with France."

3. Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain called his "inner cabinet" to discuss the increasingly dangerous European situation and the fresh problems created by the fall of Barcelona to Spain's Insurgents.

4. Germany kept ominously quiet, but Adolf Hitler was expected to break that silence Monday.

5. The Spanish Loyalist army was withdrawn intact to a new line north of Barcelona, and was prepared for a new stand—a seemingly hopeless one—against the Insurgents.

Outside of Spain itself, the most momentous question was whether Italy will now take advantage of the fall of Barcelona to present France its bill for payment of colonial claims.

March Toward Embassy.

The march of students in Rome gave indication that Italy would act soon. The students tried to march to the French embassy, but were turned back by police.

Unable to reach the French embassy, the throng marched to the two Spanish embassies in Rome to cheer "Free Spain."

To many Fascists, France has now become Italy's No. 1 potential enemy.

Many in the foreign colonies thought that Mussolini and Hitler

SENATE VOTE ON WPA CUT TESTS NEW DEAL TODAY

Proponents, Foes Split About Even on Plan to Restore $150,000,000 Slash.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — A roll call vote on restoring the $150,000,000 which the house cut from President Roosevelt's relief request furnished the senate today its first clear-cut test of administration strength this session.

Leaders of both sides, conceding strength was about equal, worked feverishly to get all their supporters in the chamber by 3 p. m., the hour agreed upon for the decision.

Acceptance of the house reduction would mean that congress would appropriate $725,000,000 to operate the WPA until July 1, approval of the larger figure—$875,000,000—probably would require a compromise between the house and senate totals.

Economy-minded senators charged that the administration forces had been killing time with speechmaking the last two days in an effort to bolster their strength.

Charges "Filibuster."

"This has been a very unusual spectacle," said Senator Clark (D-Mo). "It has been an old-fashioned filibuster in behalf of a bill instead of against one."

Senator Barkley (D-Ky), the Democratic floor leader, asserted there had been no plan to delay the measure, and that various senators

Billings Pardon Looms As Board Considers Case

SACRAMENTO, Cal.—(UP)—A prison advisory board investigated today the application of Warren K. Billings, "forgotten man" of the Thomas J. Mooney case, and there were indications that a pardon would be recommended. It must be approved by the state supreme court before Gov. Culbert Olson may grant it.

A report of the board was delayed until next month, due, said Lt. Gov. Ellis Patterson, the chairman, to a statute requiring investigation of all applications. But Patterson believed Billings was convicted, as Mooney, on "framed" evidence in the 1916 preparedness day bombing in San Francisco.

"The case is identical to the Mooney case and Governor Olson, in pardoning Mooney, suggested to the supreme court that he be permitted to pardon Billings," said Patterson.

Billings' conviction in a prior bomb case prevented an outright pardon by the governor.

What's Your Mania?

If you have a fear of being trapped in a close space—you're a claustomaniac. If your weakness runs to innocently and unconsciously picking up things that don't belong to you (perish the thought!) your tendency is kleptomaniacal. If you have trouble getting to sleep at night you're an insomniac and if you feel like jumping when reaching a high point you're another peculiar kind of maniac. In fact, a person has about one chance in a thousand to escape these tiresome little manias. So don't worry if your friends think you slightly "tetched"—you're just running true to form!

Newlyweds Among High School Grads

Marriage of Boy and Girl Students Revealed on Commencement Eve.

For the first time in the history of the Mansfield high school there will be a married couple in the line of young people who march up to receive their diplomas tonight from Alvin H. Fankhauser, member of the board of education.

For the regulation commencement exercises at Senior High school auditorium will have a double meaning for Willis B. Lewis, 21, and Mabel Louise Hahne, 17. It will be the "commencement" of their married life.

An announcement of their marriage was made to a group of friends last night when a party was given at the Hahne home.

Lewis, who quit school several years ago and then returned to graduate, and who was the leading male role in the High school operetta recently presented, and the 17-year-old school girl, were married on Nov. 10, by Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch. Lewis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lewis, 73 Bowman street, and the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Hahne, 117 Reba avenue.

While most of their friends knew of the marriage, it was supposed to be a "secret" from school authorities, so that both could graduate. For the present they will reside with the bride's parents.

ACCEPTS POST

John J. Charles Named to Fill Housing Board Vacancy.

John J. Charles, former county treasurer and assistant cashier of the Citizens National bank and Trust company, today had accepted appointment to the Mansfield Metropolitan Housing authority.

Charles was named late yesterday by the county commissioners to the post M. Dale Ward declined because of ill health. Charles was appointed for a two-year term.

Other members of the board, who were appointed last month are P. W. Backenstos, chairman, C. N. Schultz, Joseph Scanlon and Carl H. Stander.

The board is expected to seek a federal allotment for a proposed $2,000,000 slum clearance project here if congress appropriates more funds for housing purposes.

Francisco Franco—Barcelona awaits him.

CAPTURED CITY WAITS ITS FATE

Barcelona Wonders If Franco Will Be 'Butcher' or 'Man of the Hour.'

(News-Journal Special)

BARCELONA—This war-sickened city heard today of the drastic decrees of General Francisco Franco providing summary execution of murderers and assassins, and while waiting for the conquering war lord to enter the city late tonight or tomorrow, wondered if he will live up to the name of "El Carnicero" — The Butcher—which has been given him by his enemies.

From his headquarters in the field, Gen. Franco today issued a decree that all persons hostile to his regime be rounded up and placed in concentration camps. The proclamation also placed the city under martial law.

While followers of the Loyalist army — made up of Communists, labor unions, and peasants—felt that the proclamation was merely in keeping with the policies of "The Butcher," and that little or no mercy could be expected from the insurgent chieftain who is a militarist first and last, his own followers—the old Carlists, the monarchists and the Catholic churchmen—look to Franco as "the man of the hour" and the saviour of Spain.

Franco is 46. He comes from a middle class family in Ferrol, Galicia and his military career has been "from the ground up," starting when he was 14 as a

LEAVES SICK BED TO SAVE MAIL

Assistant Postmaster Hero of Blaze Which Razed Postoffice.

LEBANON — (INS) — Assistant Postmaster R. E. Hurst rose from his sick bed today to save the mail when flames destroyed the postoffice and three other buildings in Harveysburg, 13 miles northeast of Lebanon. Loss was estimated at $25,000.

The fire started in a restaurant and was battled for three hours by firemen from Lebanon, Waynesville and Wilmington.

ACT TONIGHT

Hospital Directors to Study Plan to Add Space.

Action on a proposed plan to provide additional ward space at the Mansfield General hospital is expected to be taken by the hospital board of directors at their annual meeting at 7:30 p. m. today at the hospital.

Recommendation for additional ward room will be made by Dr. A. O. Fonkalsrud, superintendent, who last Saturday told of the need of more ward space, and outlined a plan to convert storage room for this purpose. His plan has been approved by Ross A. Glessner, board president.

Other business to be transacted will be the electing of officers for the ensuing year and reports of work for the year 1938 by Dr. Fonkalsrud. Glessner will preside.

EX-BANKER GETS WELFARE POST

H. R. Mooney Succeeds Spaght as Assistant State Director.

COLUMBUS—(UP)—Herbert R. Mooney, former Woodsfield banker, today was appointed assistant state welfare director to succeed Oakley Spaght who held the position under the Davey administration. The position pays $5,000 a year.

Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood said that Mooney would be appointed chief of the division of business administration in the department later.

Mooney, a graduate of Yale university, served overseas during the World war as a first lieutenant in the field artillery. He was commander of the Ohio American Legion in 1926 and 1927.

CINCINNATI—(AP)—Roy Meeker, 28, was crushed to death today when a tractor he was operating got out of control and plunged over a steep embankment.

Roosevelt Nears His 57th Birthday Heavier, Healthy

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Roosevelt is in fine physical condition as he approaches his 57th birthday anniversary Monday, in the opinion of his personal physician, Rear Admiral Ross T. McIntire.

The new surgeon general of the navy said today the only change in the president's appearance from a year ago was possibly a pound or two more of weight.

When Mr. Roosevelt weighed about three weeks ago, the scales tipped at 188 pounds, highest in several years. His weight has ranged between 184 and 188 during his six years in the White House.

Mr. Roosevelt takes good care of himself and follows strictly a routine laid down by the admiral and himself—three or four swims in the warm waters of the White House pool a week, breakfast in bed, muscle exercises, and the like.

SANTA—PHOOEY!

Boy, 4, Decides to Play St. Nick and Here's What Happened.

VINCENNES, Ind.—(AP)—Hereafter, 4-year-old Conrad Schulte will leave this Santa Claus business to someone else.

He decided to play Santa, climbed into a 7-foot picnic furnace chimney, slid down—and stuck.

Brick by brick, the chimney was pulled down, and Conrad, badly scared, emerged.

PUT OUT CHURCH BLAZE

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—(UP)—Firemen brought under control early today a fire which had swept through St. Anthony's Catholic church, school and gymnasium, causing damage estimated at $300,000.

JURY INDICTS WITNESS AFTER HE TESTIFIES

Cited for Appearing Day Late, He Gives Testimony Leading to Blackmail Charge.

Two drinks which Sam Anderson, 56, Mansfield, admitted taking Wednesday before he was to appear as a witness before the county grand jury had brought him more trouble today than he anticipated.

Anderson was cited yesterday for contempt of court for failing to appear as a witness, and when officers took him before the jury, a day late, he gave evidence that brought a blackmail indictment him. Now he's in the county jail awaiting arraignment Saturday morning on both counts.

Anderson testified yesterday in cases against Jay and Maple Porter, brothers, who are accused of robbing him. The brothers were indicted for robbery.

Returns 26 Indictments.

The grand jury late yesterday submitted a partial report to Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston, returning indictments in 26 of 28 cases examined in a two-day session and recommending installation of an elevator at the courthouse and enlarging of the women's quarters in the county jail. Four indictments were secret and one case was ignored.

The report was described as partial by Prosecutor G. W. Marriott because the jury continued a case involving a charge of shooting with intent to wound against Mrs. Elma Ramsey, 26, colored, of Mansfield.

The surprise blackmail indictment was returned against Anderson after testimony before the jury revealed that he had demanded and accepted $61.50 from parents of the Hunter brothers

GAINING SPEED

Traffic Campaign Picks Up as 'Cycle Patrol' Returns.

The police department's "sustained program" against traffic violations took new life today as the "cycle patrol," laid up for the past three days because of mechanical difficulties, went back into action.

Armed with a bundle of traffic tags and a carton of chalk, Patrolmen C. W. Kyler and Howard Schuck began a thorough and systematic check of all automobiles in the restricted districts west of Main street.

A few hours later, the yellow tags began to show up on the door handles of the machines—violators of overtime parking (offense No. 7) parking in safety zones and stopping along side fire hydrants.

At headquarters yesterday, seven violators paid $1 fines to bring total collections in the past five days to 80.

CRASH INJURIES FATAL

DAYTON—(AP)—John Baker, 67, of Berea, Ky., died in a hospital here today of injuries sustained Sunday when struck by an auto.

SEEKS TO LIMIT HOSPITAL STAYS

Mayor Says He'll Call on Staff Doctors to Speed Release of Indigent Patients.

Mayor Claude M. Hunter said today that he would insist that General hospital staff physicians release "as soon as possible" indigent patients, in line with his efforts to slash hospitalization bills in needy cases.

The mayor contended that "not enough" attention was being given to the immediate release of city-supported patients, resulting in bills for hospitalization last year that exceeded the annual appropriation by more than $7,000.

Hunter said he would meet as soon as possible with the physicians and Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, to inform them that the city had $636 a month to pay for hospital care of indigents and that they would be expected to stay within that figure.

The statement today followed a meeting between the mayor, Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist and health heads yesterday at which it was charged that some patients were kept at the hospital longer than necessary

HAYESVILLE MAN RETAINS OFFICE

J. R. Thomas Re-elected President of Township Association.

COLUMBUS — (UP) — Joe R. Thomas, Hayesville, started his duties today as president for another year of the Ohio State association of township trustees and clerks.

Thomas was re-elected president at the 11th annual convention of the association. Also re-elected were J. W. Tucker, Pataskala, first vice president; and Charles P. Baker, jr., Painesville, secretary-treasurer. Edwin Strausser, Cincinnati, was elected second vice president to replace C. E. Wolfe, New Marshfield. On today's program was Gov. John W. Bricker.

'FULL HOUSE'

Capacity Crowd Expected for C. of C. Annual Banquet.

The ballroom at the Mansfield-Leland hotel will be jammed tonight when the Chamber of Commerce and Manufacturers division holds its 27th annual dinner-meeting to honor Mansfield's "First Citizen of 1938."

Nathaniel Leverone, of Chicago, president of the Automatic Canteen company of America, will deliver the principal address. His subject will be "Which Way America?"

The other speaker will be Cullen Wright of Omaha, Neb., widely known cowboy humorist and philosopher.

Paul W. Williams, secretary-manager of the Chamber, said that 430 reservations have been made for the dinner at which executives of the Ohio State Chamber of Commerce and from nearby cities will attend.

DR. GARR DIES

One of Three Brothers Accused in Killing Succumbs in Hospital.

LEXINGTON, Ky.—(UP)—Dr. E. S. Garr, 50, one of three brothers who were accused of killing Brig. Gen. Henry H. Denhardt on Sept. 20, 1937, died of peritonitis in the Veterans' hospital here last night.

Dr. Garr and his brothers, Jack of Cherry Grove, O., and Ray of La Grange, Ky., were exonerated of the slaying of Gen. Denhardt, widely known in Kentucky political and military circles.

MOURNS PROFESSOR

NEW CONCORD, O.—(UP)—Officials and students of Muskingum college, as well as relatives and friends, prepared today to pay final tribute to Professor J. L. Graham, former acting president, who died at his home last night. He was 84.

Chile Buries Earthquake Dead, Works To Halt Disease Spread

(By Associated Press)

SANTIAGO, Chile.—The Chilean government concentrated upon the fight to ward off disease in the stricken earthquake area today. Militia directed the work.

The death estimates at their highest still stood at 12,000, but it was likely an accurate count could never be made in the shambles of Chillan, Concepcion, and more than a score of smaller towns and villages in the region 250 miles south of the capital.

The Chillan death estimate was 4,000 to 10,000 and that for Concepcion about 2,000. Elsewhere the death toll was smaller.

Special trains, planes and trucks carried doctors and nurses into the affected areas.

Concepcion expected a shortage of water to be corrected partially today.

During Thursday only 347 bodies were buried. As a measure of precaution, bodies were sent to cemeteries as soon as they could be taken from the debris.

Ex-Kaiser, 80 Years Old Today, Holds Views On Hitler Silent

(By United Press)

DOORN, Netherlands—One subject is barred in Castle Doorn House, where the white-haired old man who was Kaiser Wilhelm celebrated his 80th birthday anniversary today with great simplicity.

Fond though he is of discussing politics, Wilhelm, or the "squire of Doorn" as he is now known, avoids all reference to the man guiding Germany's destinies—Adolf Hitler.

Aware that his family is dependent on the good will of those in power under the Nazi regime and mindful of the estates he still owns in Germany, Wilhelm carefully refrains from talking about Hitler or his government.

Twenty years in exile have not dimmed the twinkle in his eye or hardened the benevolent expression customarily found on his white-bearded face.

Hundreds of congratulatory telegrams, letters and bouquets arrived this morning at the castle over which the black and white flag of the Hohenzollerns flew.

EVERY morning we awaken to find another blanket of snow has spread over the city during the night . . . and every morning there seems to be news of some more lucky persons who are leaving for the warmer climes. Robert Buzzard is planning to leave next Monday on a motor trip to Florida. Once there, Bob intends to drive along the west coast, visit Key West and come back along the east coast. . . . He'll be gone for two weeks.

Another Florida-goer is Samuel Beer, who's going to Tampa. . . . He'll be starting his drive down tomorrow or Sunday morning.

Although they're not going directly to Florida, Leo and Frank Peters will get there eventually. They're driving down to Brownsville, Tex., and to Old Mexico before going to Florida. . . . They'll leave early in February and plan to be gone for about three weeks.

THEY'RE not going on a winter vacation and they're not moving away forever, but five young Mansfield business men are leaving next Wednesday on a sojourn which has the flavor of both. Jim Clarke, Bill McClurg, Dave Kohler, Bill Majoy and Felix Horne are going to San Francisco, Cal., as representatives of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company at its exhibit in the Golden Gate exposition. . . . They will be gone for ten months.

Mary (Mrs. W. L.) Miller had a committee meeting at her home Wednesday evening . . . It was her birthday, too . . . and thereon hangs a tale . . . because the committee members learned of the birthday beforehand and planned a surprise celebration. After the work of the committee had been completed—and promptly at 9:30 o'clock—there was a knock on the door. When Mary answered she found the husband of one of the committee members standing outside—trying hard to keep the single pink candle in the middle of a large white birthday cake lighted between blasts of the raging blizzard. It was indeed a surprise for Mrs. Miller . . . and one which grew more pleasant as the evening continued. . . . Soon, out of nowhere, seemingly, appeared ice cream and coffee to go with the cake. P. S.: I'm in favor of all committee meetings following this procedure, aren't you?

There have been numerous parties in honor of Mary Stamm recently. . . . She's at home in Mansfield now, you know, after having completed some work in nurses' training at the City hospital in Cleveland. Mary has also taken training at Mt. ESTHER LANTZ is completing her work at the Columbia College of Drama and Radio in Chicago this week and plans to open a dramatic school here about Feb. 1. Esther's most recent achievement at the college was the production and direction of a one-act religious drama. . . . It was presented last Sunday evening at the North Englewood Congregational church in Chicago. This drama, "Street of Ivory" by Helen Wilcox had a cast of five characters who were trained for their roles by Miss Lantz . . . and she assisted in designing the elaborate Chinese costumes worn by the characters. And as if she wasn't busy enough with her studies and the play, Esther was hostess at a tea given by the students of the college this week for the cast of Philip Lord's famous Gang Busters who were appearing at a Chicago theater.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

Story League Sets Date For Annual Club Social Event

The date of the annual dinner of the Mansfield Story Telling League was advanced to March 9 last night when 15 members met in the Y. W. C. A. for a program of French folk stories. Miss Evelyn Sonner conducted the business meeting, and Miss Isabel Mosey was in charge of the program.

Miss Ann Verba resigned as treasurer of the organization, and Mrs. Lucille Funk was selected to fill the vacancy.

Both stories given last night were taken from "Tales of a Basque Grandmother" by Frances Carpenter. Miss Virginia Howard told "The Sea Captain and the Serpent," and Miss Helen Lorow told "The Man Without a Shadow." The next regular meeting of the League will be held Feb. 9.

Two Auxiliary Members Will Attend Convention

Mrs. Mary Frye and Mrs. Carl Shambaugh have been appointed delegates to the Master Plumbers Women's auxiliary convention, which will be held in Canton from Feb. 6 to 8. This announcement was made yesterday afternoon when that organization met at the home of Mrs. Frank Freitchen on South Diamond street.

Thirteen members and one guest, Miss Thelma Freitchen, were in attendance at the one o'clock luncheon. Chinese checkers were the diversion of the afternoon, and prizes went to Mrs. Henry Denig and Mrs. Shambaugh. Mrs. Alex Grassick will have the next regular meeting at her home on East Fourth street, Feb. 23.

Fete December Bride At Miscellaneous Shower

Mrs. Frederick Proctor, who was formerly Miss Alice Bell Dickson before her marriage last December, was the guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower last evening at the home of Miss Elizabeth Anderson, 174 Western avenue. The Misses Jane Tapper and Martha Lambright and Mrs. Jack Anthony served as associate hostesses for the affair.

The group met for dessert-bridge at 8 o'clock last evening and was seated at one long table, which was centered with a bouquet of white roses in a crystal bowl and lighted with tall white tapers. Bridge was played at two tables, and score prizes were won by Mrs. Proctor and Miss Mabel Bennett. The honoree was the recipient of many gifts for her home, and the hostesses presented her with a blanket.

PLAY PINOCHLE.

Pinochle was played yesterday when Mrs. V. V. Valentine, Spring street, entertained members of the Merry Mixers club. Mrs. George Kuelling and Mrs. Sell Michalski won the prizes. Luncheon was served to the members and one guest, Mrs. Daniel Schelk, by the hostess. Mrs. Michalski will entertain Feb. 9.

REVIEWS BEST SELLER.

The best selling novel, "Rebecca," by Daphne Du Maurier was reviewed yesterday by Mrs. Frank Mahoney when Mrs. A. R. Perl, 18 Penn avenue, was hostess. "Rebecca" is the story of the influence of a dead woman on her husband and his second wife. The next meeting will be a sealed program Feb. 9 at the home of Mrs. Julius Weber.

HOME FROM SCHOOL.

Home from Ohio University at Athens for a brief between-semesters vacation are several Mansfield students. Those visiting their parents over the holiday are the Misses Dorothy Klohs, Wanda Emmer, Charlotte Grey, Mary Werner and Sue Belle Paste.

Gay Print For Spring Days

Prints appear again in the clothes which are going south. A black sketched leaf pattern covers this white crepe frock designed for "cocktails and dinner." The same crepe makes a snood for the big black hat.

Bride of Late August Honored At Bridge Party

Mrs. Paul Gannaway was honored with a kitchen shower yesterday evening at the home of Miss Maxine Beal, 55 Poplar street. Mrs. Gannaway was Miss Florence Benedict before her marriage Aug. 29, 1938.

Bridge was in play at two tables during the party, and score prizes were won by the hostess and Mrs. Chalmer Harris. They presented their awards to the honoree. Luncheon was served at the close of the evening at one long table.

The table was decorated in keeping with the spirit of St. Valentine Day and was centered with a large white cake and red tapers. Each of the guests received a red carnation, and the nut cups, which were shaped like red hearts, carried verses on the bottom directing Mrs. Gannaway to her shower of kitchen gifts. Miss Beal presented the honoree with a gift of California pottery.

WIN PRIZES.

Prizes were won by Miss Helen Stuhldreher and Miss Pauline Glenn yesterday at the meeting of the Octave club at the home of Miss Dorothy Altaffer. The next meeting will be held Feb. 9 with Mrs. Mildred Blainey.

Papers Presented Before Members Of Pavonia Group

Mrs. Fred Buxton, assisted by Mrs. Charles Kagey and Mrs. George Robinson, entertained 11 members and two guests of the Pavonia Garden club at her home yesterday. Miss Tressa Hubbs opened the program by giving a paper entitled "Our Native Cactii."

Miss Caroline Hughes spoke on "Old-Fashioned Gardens." Contests followed the program, and prizes were awarded to Mrs. Glenn Hout, Mrs. Albert Pittinger, Mrs. Fred Burkholder and one of the guests.

The next meeting will be Feb. 16 at the home of Mrs. Dale Eberts. This will be an all-day meeting and covered-dish dinner.

Plan Family Dinner At Railroad Aid Meeting

Plans were made yesterday for the family covered-dish dinner at North Lake Park pavilion which will be held tonight when members of the Pennsylvania Railroad Aid met at the home of Mrs. E. W. High, 173 West Second street. Mrs. J. F. Evans and Mrs. L. K. Banks were the associate hostesses.

One guest, Mrs. C. L. Hatmaker, was present. Following the business meeting progressive hearts were played, and Mrs. Charles Collier, Mrs. A. E. Swain and Mrs. F. D. Pennell were winners. The refreshments were in keeping with the Valentine motif. The next meeting will be Feb. 23 at the home of Mrs. A. W. Wolfe, 405 West Fifth street.

Chose Musicale Cast At Party of Church Choir

Choir members were cast in roles for the presentation of the musicale "Prof. P. Pippin and His Ol' Singing School" last night at the Senior choir party of the First Christian church which was held at the pastor's home on West Third street. The musicale will be presented late next month at the church.

Games were played during the evening, and prizes were awarded to Mrs. John Owens, Myrta Levering, Mrs. Paul Zimmerman and Henry Bechtel. Luncheon was served by Rev. and Mrs. B. F. Hagelbarger.

ANNOUNCE MARRIAGE OF YOUNG COUPLE

Miss Mabel Louise Hahne, Willis B. Lewis Wed In November; Will Be Graduated From Senior High School Tonight.

WHEN commencement exercises are conducted tonight at Mansfield Senior high school, Miss Mabel Louise Hahne and Willis B. Lewis will be graduated as husband and wife. Their marriage was disclosed last night at a party given by members of the Junior Deb club at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Hahne, 117 Reba avenue.

Every detail of the party, which was attended by 16 members and guests of the club, was carried out in the Valentine motif. Tallies bearing two hearts pierced by an arrow bore the names of the couple and the date of the marriage. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis were married in Mansfield on Nov. 10, 1938.

Mr. Lewis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lewis, 73 North Bowman street. During the evening the girls played bunco, and prizes were awarded to the Misses Betty Hamlin, Martha Brown and DeLees Boots.

The guests presented the recent bride with a bedspread. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis will be at home with Mr. and Mrs. Hahne at the Reba avenue address for the present.

Final Plans Made For Benefit Dance

As members of the ticket committee settled down to calling of the members of the A. A. U. W., things took shape for the second annual mid-year dance to be sponsored by the organization. The benefit affair will be held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel Feb. 4 with the Westinghouse orchestra directed by Bob Richards providing music between the hours of 10 p. m. and 1 a. m.

Complete arrangements for the affair are in charge of Mrs. F. J. Heringhaus, general chairman. Mrs. George Ingram is ticket chairman. The benefit guest dance is being sponsored by the organization to raise money for the scholarship fund.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Goodman, Glasgow, Ky., are spending the week-end with Capt. William P. Wescott, 278 North Main street.

Luncheon Served Link Club Members At Noon

A 12 o'clock luncheon was an event of yesterday for members of the Link club and one guest, Mrs. J. D. Faust. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. William Daily on West Second street.

Card games were played at two tables during the afternoon, and prizes went to Mrs. C. A. Andrews, Mrs. J. B. Baer, Mrs. John Banks, and Mrs. Lloyd Banks. The next meeting of the club will be at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Banks on Hedges street Feb. 23.

PLAY CARDS.

Miss Lena Carbetta was hostess at her home on North Mulberry street Thursday to members of L'Amici club and two guests. Cards were played, and luncheon was served, with Mrs. Mary Dinger winning the club prize. The next meeting will be Feb. 6 at the home of Mrs. Anthony Mollica, West Sixth street.

ENTERTAIN GUEST.

Mrs. Samuel Morgan was a guest yesterday at the Buona Vera club when Mrs. Harry Sowash entertained at her home, 207 Lexington avenue. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Ray Brady and Mrs. John Schaefer. The luncheon table was decorated with red and white roses and sweet peas and tall red tapers. The next meeting will be Feb. 7 with Mrs. Brady on Lind avenue.

SMOKE BLAME ON CITY

SAINT JOHN, N. B.—(U.P.)—The City Council appointed Deputy Fire Chief Robert Carson to survey the city smoke nuisance, and his report gave the councillors a shock. Carson reported that the greatest offender was the City Hall.

HAVE LUNCHEON.

Mrs. Charles Abele and Mrs. Perry Bush were guests at a meeting of Circle One of the Park Avenue Baptist church yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. D. C. Cole, 228 Vennum avenue. The group met for a 1 o'clock luncheon, after which Mrs. Laurence Todd gave the devotions. Miss Hazel McMeekin read several articles from the "Mission" magazine. Mrs. Charles Keller will have the next circle meeting at her home on North Mulberry street, Feb. 23.

SURPRISE PARTY.

The birthday of Mrs. Howard Bittinger was the occasion for a surprise party and covered-dish dinner at 6 o'clock last night at the Bittinger home, 107 South Diamond street. There were 25 friends and relatives present, and the guest of honor was given a bouquet of pansies and a number of personal gifts. Music and games were the diversion of the evening.

ENTERTAINS R CLUB.

Miss Eva McFerren entertained members of the R club yesterday at the home of Mrs. Hubert Dent, Vennum avenue, when five hundred was played at two tables. Prizes were presented to Mrs. Jeannette Page, Mrs. Gareld Wagner, and Mrs. R. D. Hout. The next meeting will be Feb. 10 with Miss Pearl Adams, Lexington avenue.

AUTHOR PAINTS WORD MURAL OF U. S. IN NOVEL

'American Quest' Reveals Diverse Elements Fused Into American Scene.

Bradford Smith has attempted to paint a mural of America in his book "American Quest" which has just made its appearance in the Public Library shelves. In it he tries to reveal its diverse elements fusing into a force different from any of its parts. The chief character is Walter Quest, a common man who goes about the country trying to teach men to love one another.

"The Doomsday Men" by John B. Priestley is a deftly ingenious tale of mystery, adventure and romance having its setting in the American southwest. The story of a harried business man's unexpected year of peace and contentment and happiness is told in "A Stranger Came To Port" by Max Miller.

Other fiction includes "Devil In Satin," Yates; "Death for Dear Clara," Webb; "Root in the Rock," Southgate; "Portrait of a Scoundrel," Phillpotts; "To Love and to Cherish," Carfrae.

Doctor's Life Story.

"The Life of Chevalier Jackson," an autobiography, is this great doctor's story of how he came to take up his work of removing safety pins and buttons from the bronchial tubes of children. "Let Them Live" by Stewart H. Holbrook is an accurate and illuminating account of the history of accident prevention, the tremendous increase in safety appliances within recent years and the steady, progressive work which is being done to make the American public safety-conscious.

The personal history of a pioneer pilot is told in "Winged Highway" by William Stephen Grooch. It is the story of one of the first men to blaze the great airline trails to South America and China. "Angels Don't Marry" by Florence Ryerson and Colin Clements is the title play in a book of one-act plays presented to the library by the authors.

Other non-fiction includes "Heat and Thermodynamics' by Zemansky; "Have You Had Your Vitamins?" Holmes; "Slaves By The Billion," Bent; "Both Sides of the Microphone," Hayes and Gardner; "Era of Earl Stanhope, Stereotyper," Kubler; "Printing in the Americas," Oswald; "Oxacetylene Welding and Cutting, Electric and Thermit Welding," Manly; "Electric Welding,' Potter; "Men of Turmoil," "Stories of the Spanish Artists Until Goya," Maxwell; "Stories of the English Artists." Davies and Hunt; "World Patriots." Johnston; "Navy Wings," Miller, and "Caribbee Cruise," by Vandercook.

SOUTH AMERICAN PLUMS ARRIVE FOR WEEK-END FOOD MARKETS

If you've grown tired of the usual run of seasonal fruits and the continuous winter cold and snow, maybe you can bring summer a little nearer by serving some unseasonal fruits and vegetables over the week-end.

Plums, fresh from South America, are the newest fruit on the market today. Along in the same bracket with the more uncommon winter fruits are fresh strawberries from Florida, fresh pineapple, grapes, kumquats.

When everything out-of-doors is blanketed with snow, even greenery on the table helps bring the springtime a little closer. All of the leafy vegetables available now will aid in this accomplishment. This week's market brings spinach, broccali, mustard and dandelion greens, water cress, cabbage, endive, parsley, and all kinds of lettuce, including butter, leaf and head lettuce.

Some of the more filling vegetables on the market this week-end will serve to appease the appetite and brighten the table too. Egg plant, green, wax and lima beans, peas, tomatoes, hubbard squash, carrots, beets, and cucumbers will all further this purpose.

Some of the more common foods which are offered this week are potatoes, hot and sweet peppers, rhubarb, cranberries, green onions, California Pascal celery, red bananas, figs, and dates.

SAYS BENEFITS ARE SEPARATE

Mish Points Out Payments to Jobless Have No Effect on Social Security.

Jobless workers receiving benefit payments under the new state compensation insurance law will not lose benefits to which they or their heirs will be entitled to under the old age insurance section of the Social Security Act, R. G. Mish, manager of the Mansfield field office of the Social Security board, said today.

"Now that Ohio is paying job insurance benefits, some persons have the idea that this money is coming wholly or partly out of funds which workers and their employers pay under the old-age insurance plan," Mish said.

"The two sets of benefits are entirely different and persons receiving unemployment benefits will still be entitled to payments which will be made later under the old-age insurance plan."

Mish explained that none of the money contributed for old-age insurance benefits is applied toward the payment of unemployment compensation and that workers accounts set up by the Social Security board are in no way effected by any of the benefits drawn under the Ohio unemployment compensation law.

Mish pointed out that money payments due under the old-age insurance plan are paid directly from the U. S. treasury while the job insurance benefit checks are issued by the state of Ohio after it has drawn money from the state's unemployment compensation trust fund which on Dec. 1, 1938 amounted to more than $95,000,000.

CASTLE DAMAGED

EDINBURGH—(U.P.)—Fire damaged the south wing of Scotland's oldest castle, Dunvegan on the Isle of Skye, for centuries the seat of the Macleod of Maceleod. During one of the first snowstorms of the season, more than 200 islanders fought savagely to quench the flames and salvage the historic treasures within the ancient walls.

Madison Denies Bid for Berth

Chuckovits Better Than Hank Luisetti

NEW YORK—(AP)—Comparison of the scoring records of Chuck Chuckovits, U. of Toledo forward who plays against undefeated Long Island U. in Madison Square Garden Friday night, and Hank Luisetti, Stanford ace who holds the national four-year major college scoring mark, shows that Chuckovits is even better than Luisetti.

To date Chuckovits has played in 42 less games than Luisetti but his average per game is 17.4 to Luisetti's 16.2. Luisetti scored 1,596 points all told in four years of college competition. Toledo has no freshman schedule but Chuckovits has 961 points for his sophomore, Junior and part of his senior seasons.

Ernie, Mel Win In Cleveland

One of the three-brothers' acts in the Cleveland Golden Gloves tournament was broken up last night when George McKinley of Ashland was kayoed in the second round by Bill Le Hecka of Cleveland in a novice lightweight bout.

Ernie McKinley knocked out Steve Nemic in the third round of an open featherweight fight, and Melvin, the other brother, finished Bantam Novice Frank Unitic in one round.

Coach Fendrick Says School Not Interested in League Affiliations.

MADISON high school officials today denied that an application for membership in the League of Six Nations has been filed by the Mansfield suburban school as announced by A. T. Enoch of Marion, president of the league, earlier this week.

Enoch stated in a dispatch released from Marion that Madison and Mt. Gilead, another member of the defunct Mid-State league, had applied for membership, and that their applications would be acted on at a league meeting to be held in Marion tonight.

Not Interested.

Coach Al Fendrick said today that Madison had been invited to join the circuit next fall, but could not accept the bid if it wished as the Rams' football schedule for next fall has been completed.

However Madison has no ambitions to affiliate with the circuit, which now includes Crestline, Tiffin Calvert Marion St. Mary's and Fostoria St. Wendelin, Fendrick said.

"Our current athletic plans do not include an affiliation in any league," Fendrick stated. "We're not interested in the League of Six Nations or any other league."

Madison was a member of the Mid-State league last year, but will play independently next fall due to the dissolution of the circuit, apparently, because of the greater strength of the Ram elevens. Madison won the championship five of the six years the league existed.

Play Eight Games.

The Rams will play eight games again next fall. Only two new schools will appear on the schedule. They are Wooster, a Class A school, and Orrville.

Wooster, which is coached by Ed Winsper, formerly of Shelby, will open the season on the Madison field. Other games will be Upper Sandusky, Norwalk St. Paul's, Bellville, Loudonville, Crestline and New London Mt. Vernon and Mt. Gilead, 1938 foes, have not been rescheduled.

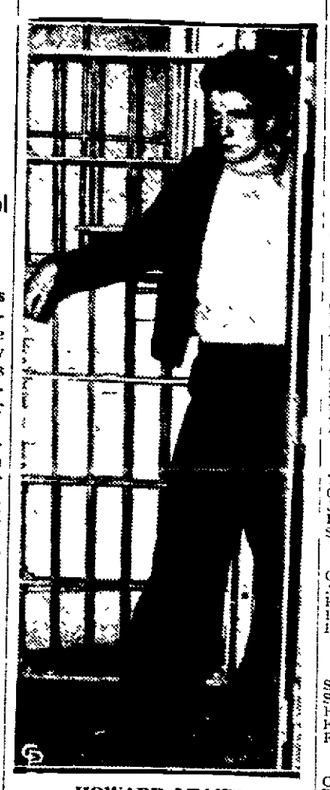
Star Accused



HOWARD LEAHY

One of northern Ohio's best bets for an Olympic track post in 1940, Howard Leahy, 19-year-old star mile runner of Cleveland East Tech high school, is accused of being the robber who had invaded a score of East Cleveland homes in the last few weeks. Leahy, who is said by Police Chief L. G. Corlett to have admitted 41 burglaries, lives with an aunt.

Relays Champion Held In Thefts

Howard Leahy, 19-year-old Cleveland East track star, who won the mile championships in the 1937 and 1938 Mansfield Relays, pleaded guilty to stealing womens clothing for "sex thrills" yesterday in Cleveland, and was held to the grand jury on a $2,000 bond, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

Dr. Royal Grossman, court psychiatrist, ordered Leahy, who also won the state mile titles in 1937 and 1938, examined after police reported he confessed 49 burglaries and theft of women's shoes, dresses and undergarments for the "thrill."

The youth pleaded for a chance to prove he is "cured" of the affliction which drove him to the thefts. He was committed to jail in default of bond pending grand jury action.

Young Huron, O., Boy Gets Job On Ty Cobb's Recommendation

SAN FRANCISCO, —(AP)—From the little town of Huron, O., comes Arthur Paul, 17-year-old pitcher, newly signed fledgling of the San Francisco Seals Baseball club—recommended by no less a personage than Ty Cobb.

Paul signed with the Seals yesterday after a tryout which prompted his catcher, Larry Woodall, veteran Pacific Coast league backstop, to remark: "The kid is a pretty good all-around ball player."

Young Paul launched the chain of events himself by writing a letter to Cobb telling of his record in the Bush and semi-pro ranks. Cobb relayed the letter to President Charles Graham of the Seals with a note suggesting Paul be given a tryout.

Paul related that he pitched 38 games in Ohio, won 36, six of them no-hit, no-run contests, nine others only one-hitters, seven others marred by only two safeties.

The youngster mentioned that one of these victories required 24 innings He wrote also that he had struck out 652 batters in his career.

You'll love to cook the easy Spry way

YOU'LL be delighted with the results you get. Cake so light and fine and velvety, so good-tasting. (And what a saving over using expensive cake shortening!) Pastry so tender and flaky it breaks at a touch of the fork, melts in your mouth. Fried foods . . . u-m-m . . . so crisp and delicate! Your family will rave about them. Try Spry today. See how creamy, easy to mix, how white. You'll love this purer shortening!

BAKED BROWN BREAD made the new SPRY way

1½ cups sifted flour
2½ teaspoons soda
1½ teaspoons salt
½ cup sugar
2 cups Graham flour
1 cup raisins
2 eggs, well beaten
2 cups sour milk
½ cup Spry, melted
½ cup molasses

Sift flour, soda, salt and sugar together. Add Graham flour and mix well; add raisins and mix. Combine beaten eggs, sour milk, melted Spry and molasses. Turn liquids into dry ingredients and stir vigorously until all flour is dampened.

Pour batter into 14 x 9 x 2-inch pan greased with Spry. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 35 to 40 minutes. Notice how extra-delicious and tender this brown bread is—and how wonderfully easy to make this new Spry way.

CHECK UP ON THE 3 "F's" IF YOU WANT THE VERY FINEST CRACKER

FRESHNESS—When you hear a cracker "snap" as you break it, you can tell it's going to be crunchy . . . deliciously fresh. Premium Crackers always pass this test because they reach you fresher. They're rushed straight from the nearby National Biscuit Company ovens to your grocer in triple-wrapped, NBC sealed packages.

FLAVOR—One bite, and you know why Premiums are going to be a family favorite. They have a tang that can't be copied. A way of making foods served with them more exciting.

Order a package of Premiums tomorrow. See how many ways you can use this finer cracker. How much better they are FLAKINESS—One look at the inside of a Premium Cracker tells you how light and flaky it is. Extra shortening goes into Premiums, and they're made from finer ingredients . . . baked to golden perfection!

SUGGESTION OF THE WEEK! CHEESE SNACK—Mix 1 cup cottage cheese with 2 tablespoons thick cream and 1 teaspoon minced onion Season to taste with salt and pepper Serve with a generous plate of crisp Premium Crackers.

WEST COAST CALLS BOWLING ALLEYS 'COURTS,' GUTTERS 'GROOVES.'

By OSCAR RUHL
(News-Journal Sports Editor)

OUT on the west coast, bowling alleys are called courts . . . and a gutter isn't a gutter, but a groove. Rather dignified, don't you think? . . . One of these years Ed Delehanty will make baseball's hall of fame. The former big league star who got his start here in Mansfield has been a leader in the balloting every year, and was seventh in the 1939 voting. George Sisler, Eddie Collins, Willie Keeler, Rube Waddell, Rogers Hornsby, and Frank Chance were those who polled more votes than Delehanty. . . . An article in a neighboring city paper concerning the eligibility of a Minnesota football player said: "He was declared eligible for one more year of compensation." Maybe the linotype operator was right. . . . Henry Armstrong's exhibition in Akron the other night attracted only 520 persons, who paid $646.22, exclusive of the taxes which totalled 20½ per cent. Expenses of the show, not counting Armstrong's 50 per cent, were around $800. So, Tim Nolan, maybe you're lucky you were unable to get the champion for the Armory.

Wooster Forward Cages Record Goal.

ADD to basketball oddities: Dick Gernert, Wooster forward, in a game against Mt. Union, retrieved the ball on the Mounts' foul line. Seeing one of his teammates breaking down the center of the court, he reared back and with one hand sailed a pass that he thought would be just right for his mate to take on the dead run. Instead Gernert's pass was high, struck the front edge of the basket, bounced up against the backboard and then bounded down through the basket . . . a goal heaved approximately 70 feet. . . . Billy Evans, the Red Sox' farm director, has been named defendant in a $75,000 suit, filed by the estate of a Clevelander, killed in a traffic accident involving Evans' car. . . . Andy Varipapa, bowling exhibitionist, rolled his 44th perfect game the other night on the Mt. Vernon alleys . . . against Dale Porter, well-known to Mansfield keglers.

Ashland Bitter At Tyger Fans.

STUDENTS of Ashland high school are said to be bitter over the treatment received in the Mansfield gym a week ago. They claim that every time they started an organized cheer, Mansfield's band started playing or Tyger rooters countered with a louder cheer than the one Ashland could produce. Well, you can't prove it by us. . . . Floyd Tate always wanted a fullback with plenty of explosive power for his Estherville, Iowa, high school eleven. So when Mrs. Tate presented him with a baby son, it was christened Terry Norman Tate—T. N. T. for short. . . . Do not be confused when you read that the 1940 Olympic games will be held in Helsingfors or Helsinki, Finland. They are the same city. The Swedish call it Helsingfors and the Finnish call it Helsinki.

Billiards Halted By Sohioans

Rex Team Suffers 1st Defeat in 20 League Games.

SENIOR "A" LEAGUE

	W.	L.	Pct.
Rex Billiards	8	1	.889
Blue Goose Sohioans	7	2	.778
Augustine Canfields	5	4	.556
Miller's Dairys	3	6	.333
Musille Cigars	2	7	.222
Raemelton Farm	2	7	.222

THE domination of the Senior A league by the defending champion Rex Billiards was halted last night, temporarily, at least.

After winning 19 straight league assignments, eight this season, the Billiards were knocked from their perch last night when they were taken into camp by a 33 to 27 count by the Blue Goose Sohioans.

Assured of Tie.

The Billiards are already assured of a tie for the first half title, with the Blue Goose entry the team that can share the toga with them in the round's finale next week if it wins against another loss for the leaders.

Of course, if the Cuemen triumph, the first half race will be over, regardless of how the Sohioans make out.

The Blue Goose club was forced to fight all the way to snap the Cuemen's string. The Sohioans held a 5 to 4 lead at the end of the first period, and a 13 to 9 advantage at the half. The Billiards tied the score in the third quarter, but they were unable to halt the determined Sohioans in the final period.

Kenny Lockhart played a sensational game for the Sohioans, scoring 19 points.

Augustine's Canfield Oils trimmed Miller's Dairys, 41 to 40, in another spectacular ball game. The Oils held a slight lead all the way, sporting at 29 to 21 advantage at the intermission.

Bill Moritz was offered a chance to give his team the victory in the fading seconds when he was given a couple of free throws, but he missed on both attempts.

Moritz, however, did his share to keep the Dairys in the ball game, scoring 13 points. Gramly contributed 11, Carbetta, with 11 points, and Augustine, 10, paced the Canfields.

Scores Second Win.

The Raemelton Farm registered its second victory of the league season when it edged the Musille Cigars, 30 to 27, in the other game. The Farms were never behind after jumping into an 8 to 5 lead at the half. Bajai of the Cigars was high scorer of the team with 12 points.

The victory enabled the Farm to tie the Cigar for fifth place.

GOODWILL TOURNAMENT SET FOR MEDER ALLEYS

M S Meder, owner of the Meder Recreation alleys, announced today that his invitation to stage the next Inter-City Goodwill tournament at his alleys has been accepted. The tournament will be staged Sunday, Feb. 12. The tournament is staged once a month in cities in the Inter-City association district.

DODDS IN TWO RACES

ASHLAND—(AP)—Gilbert Dodds, Ashland college runner, will compete in the two-mile events in the Millrose games in New York, Feb 4 and the Boston A. A. meets Feb 11.

TIGHTENS CUE GRIP

Two victories over Frank Scoville of Buffalo, N. Y., gave Jay Bozeman a firmer grip today on his lead in the round-robin tournament for the world's three cushion billiard championship.

SEEK SHARE OF LEAD

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Ohio State's Buckeyes go gunning for a share of first place tomorrow night in the only game on a Big Ten basketball bill interrupted by semester examinations. The Buckeyes encounter the lowly but dangerous Chicago Maroons here.

When Cleveland's Barons tackle the defending International-American league champion Providence Reds at the Arena Saturday night, the sextet's durable left winger, Lorne Duguid, will be starting his 84th straight game in the league. He has a consecutive game streak of 89 in a row under his belt if you add the five pre-season exhibition games played by the Barons.

He's Durable Star of Barons

Tickets Offered Race Fans In Kentucky Derby Contest

WHAT do you know about the Kentucky Derby?

Whether you are a horse race fan or not, you certainly know something about the U. S. track classic.

So, why not check the questions in The News-Journal-Ohio theater "Kentucky" contest, and win a couple of tickets?

The contest is being held in conjunction with the Technicolor film, "Kentucky," featuring Richard Greene and Loretta Young, which opens at the Ohio theater, Saturday.

Sixteen questions must be answered in the contest. A pair of tickets to the Ohio theater will be awarded to the first 15 persons answering them correctly. The deadline for the entries is 5 p. m. Monday.

All entries must be addressed to the Kentucky Contest Editor, care of The News-Journal.

The questions:

1—In what year was the first Kentucky Derby run?
2—Does the winner's share of the purse ever vary?
3—Did War Admiral ever win a Derby?
4—Did Seabiscuit ever win a Derby?
5—Where is the Derby held?
6—What horse ran in the fastest time?
7—What is the length of the race?
8—What is the nickname of the district where the Derby is run?
9—How o'd are the horses entered in the Derby?
10—What was the name of the first Derby winner?
11—Did Man o' War ever win a Derby?
12—How long is a furlong?
13—What horse won the last Derby?
14—Has the length of the race always been the same?
15—Was Cavalcade, 1934 winner, an American or foreign-bred horse?
16—What was the least number of horses ever to start in the Derby?

Bucyrus Routed By Marion, 57-30

MARION—Bucyrus high cagers, who upset the pace-setting Ashland club last week, was dropped by Marion, 57 to 30, last night in an N. C. O. conference game here. Hudsen led Marion with 12 points.

MEPHISTO'S STILL CHAMP

COLUMBUS—(NNS)—The Great Mephisto retained his world's light heavyweight wrestling crown last night, thanks to a ring post. Frank Talaber, becoming groggy from a series of "pile drivers," missed Mephisto and crashed head first into the post. Mephisto quickly pinned the challenger to gain the victory.

AGREE TO CLEVELAND

CLEVELAND—(U P)—U. S. Naval academy officials have agreed to the selection of Cleveland as site of the Navy-Notre Dame football game next Oct. 21, the United Press learned authoritatively today.

MANSFIELD, RICHLAND CLUBS SHOOT TUESDAY

The Mansfield and Richland Gasco Rifle and Pistol clubs will stage their third match in the current city championship series at the Gasco club range on South Main street Tuesday night, it was announced today.

The Mansfield club won the first two matches and can cinch at least a tie for the title by winning Tuesday.

MAT SHOW OFF

Unable to sign the wrestlers he desired, Promoter Tim Nolan of the Quality Athletic club announced that no show will be held at the Armory tonight.

Printers Remain Game Behind Office Cafes

Jimmy Smith of Legion Rolls 664 In Postponed Match; Mrs. Meder Sets Women's Pace.

THE rampaging Mansfield Printers have passed all but the Office Cafe in their bid for first place in the Commercial B league.

Taking three games from Met's Auto Supplies at the Meder alleys last night, the Printers remained one game behind the Cafe, which swept its match with the Shelby Cycles. Harry Uplinger shot a 614 for the Cafe.

In winning three from the Supplies, the Printers, led by Carl Heilman's 615 and Cy Messimer's 603, rolled the high team series of the night, a 2824, opening with a 1033.

Harold Lemunyon's 632 led the Heilman Grocers to the second high team count of 2823, which was good for a sweep over the O. P. S. keglers.

The Ringside Cafe added a pair of victories at the expense of the Satterlee Restaurant and returned to a tie with its victims for third place.

Rolling a 2705 total, the Kochheiser Sports took three games from the Burghardt Cafe and the Mansfield Rugs won a pair of tilts from the Yuncker Sports.

Mrs. Meder's 577 Leads Women's League.

SOPHIA MEDER was high in the Women's league with a snappy 577 series, but her Moderne Beauty Salon won only one game from the Richland Printers. She accounted for scores of 209, 201 and 167.

Jocha compiled a 511 total as Harvey's Sample Shoes took two games from the Office Cafe, led by Reno's 513. Shelley's Chocolates won two tilts from the Morgan Dry Cleaners in the other match.

Deems, Buckmaster Lead High League.

EARLE DEEMS of the No. 1 team set the individual scoring pace in the Senior high school league with a 506 total, climaxed with a 180. Arno Buckmaster, sporting a middle game of 193, shot an even 500 for No. 7.

Sells, Barr Pace Mansfield Victory

With Fred Sells and L. S. Barr holding the high guns, the Mansfield Rifle and Pistol club defeated Crestline, 1374 to 1284, in a league match on the Crestline range last night.

Sells, with a perfect score from prone compiled an aggregate of 281. Barr was only one point lower.

TONY TO START 'EM

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Tony Galento, New Jersey heavyweight fighter, will fire the starting gun at Cleveland's six-day bicycle race which begins next Wednesday. He will stop here on his way to Detroit where he fights Natie Brown next Friday night.

BUDGE EXTENDS LEAD

CHARLOTTE, N. C.—(U.P.)—Donald Budge defeated Ellsworth Vines 6-3, 6-2 to take an 11-7 match lead in their professional tennis tour here last night.

Need One Win To Cinch Title

Sports Can Turn Trick Next Monday Night.

Roaring down the home stretch with a one-game lead, the undefeated Yuncker Sports will attempt to annex the second round championship of the City Class A basketball league in the final games of the round at Senior high Monday night.

The crack Yuncker outfit has already won the opening round crown and has established a new consecutive game winning streak by copping its 15th win in a row last week.

Manager Jimmy Breres' defending champions tackle the Westinghouse Electrics in the second tussle and a victory for the Sports will assure them of the title. The other contest on the program tosses Earl Herrick's Hi-Speeds against the Elks Lodge quintet.

The Electrics trail the pace by a single game, and must stop the Sports' brilliant winning streak if they hope to share second-round title honors.

Pilot George Percy's job will be to set up a defense to halt the Yuncker team's fast-breaking attack.

Inmates Trim Elyria Blues

Jumping into a 14 to 8 lead in the first period, the Reformatory basketeers rolled to a 50 to 29 victory over the Elyria Blues at the institution yesterday.

Although outscored in the second period, the inmates held a 24 to 20 lead at the intermission. In the second half, the inmates scored 26 points while limiting the visitors to nine.

Brown, with 14 points, Calhoun, 13 and Murphy, 10, led the institution boys' scoring.

Mansfield Idle Until Saturday

Murphy's Courtiers Tackle Sandusky on Home Floor; Rams Seek Revenge Against Loudonville.

MANSFIELD HIGH SCHOOL'S second big test of the week comes Saturday night when they engage Sandusky at the Tyger lair.

This game should produce another exciting evening for Mansfield followers as the Blue Streaks are rated strong as Bellevue, which tripped the Tygers Tuesday night in the most spectacular tussle witnessed on the home court in several winters.

Sandusky, like Bellevue, also has ambitions to avenge the defeats suffered in the district tournament by the Tygers. But whether the Streaks will be as successful as the Redmen remains to be seen.

Coach Russ Murphy was dissatisfied with the performance of the Tygers against Bellevue, but if hard work on the practice court has any significance, Mansfield will be set for Saturday's invasion.

Mansfield may even find Sandusky more difficult than Bellevue as the Streaks possess more height. Heading the Sandusky lineup is Irv Barnett, who is six-foot-six. He tallied 14 points as the Streaks whipped Findlay, 27 to 25, Tuesday.

Ontario Game to Decide Fourth Place.

IT may be difficult to predict how tonight's games in the Richland county league will come out, but, one thing is certain.

The tie holding Ontario and Lexington to fourth place will be knocked into a cocked hat because these two rivals collide on the Ontario court.

There is even a chance for the winner to climb a notch in the race. Of course, this depends on what happens to Lucas on the Union court.

If Lucas turns back the Indians, the best the winner of the Ontario-Lexington game can gain in an undisputed grip of fourth place. A defeat by Lucas will mean advancement. Butler is host to Bellville tonight.

Regardless of tonight's results, Madison's position at top of the league standings will not be threatened. The Rams hold a two and a half game lead at present.

Madison is not scheduled tonight, but entertains Loudonville Saturday night.

This will be one of the big games on the Madison home schedule as it was the Red Birds who handed the Rams one of their two defeats. Loudonville turned the trick by one of the most decisive margins that a Madison quintet had been beaten in years.

Madison turned back Bellville early this week, and Coach Al Fendrick said that his cagers are in fine shape for the non-league encounter.

Shelby Primed for Ashland Contest.

SHELBY, sharing the basement position with Galion, has a chance to spring another upset tonight when the Whippets invade Ashland for an N. C. O. tussle.

The Whippets, who pulled a surprise by whipping Mt. Vernon several weeks ago, meet the league leader in Ashland, and while they will be the underdogs, Coach Dave Bill Query hopes to see his team stage a comeback tonight.

Mt. Vernon performs at Galion in the other N. C. O. game on the bill, while Bucyrus is host to Plymouth in a non-league tilt.

Bowman Club Retains Grade League Edge

Defeats Hedges to Remain in Front of Bushnell.

With Morehead and Diehl scoring all of the points, Bowman defeated Hedges, 11 to 9, to retain its first place advantage in the Grade School league at Mansfield high school Thursday.

The second-place Bushnell quintet, led by Brooks' 12 points, turned back West Fifth, 15 to 8, and Woodland won over Newman, 9 to 4. Weaver tallied 11 points as Western walloped Prospect, 20 to 8. Carpenter edged Brinkerhoff, 6 to 5, in the other game.

Clair Bee Attributes Success To 'Shock-Troop' System at L. I. U.

By BILL BONI

NEW YORK—(AP)—Having built up an intersectional giant-killer of awesome proportions, Coach Clair Bee, former assistant coach at Mansfield, O., high, sat still long enough today to analyze his Long Island university basketball team and attribute its success chiefly to the "shock-troop" system first popularized by Knute Rockne and Notre Dame.

The L. I. U. cagers, in piling up 11 straight victories, have knocked over such powerhouses as Marquette from the midwest, Southern California from the far west and Kentucky from the south. In doing so, they have split the work almost equally between a six-man group of seniors and a six-man group of sophomores.

This approaches basketball heresy. Few great or even good teams of the past have had more than six high-class operatives. Bee's 1933-34-35 L. I. U. outfit, which set a major college record by winning 43 straight games, had no more than that. But the current team loses little in effectiveness no matter which group is operating.

"It's not that our reserves are such extra-fine basketball players," Bee explains. "But they have terrific drive and enthusiasm. That works two ways: It keeps the pressure on our opponents, because the kids are in there digging all the time, and it keys up the seniors to fight for their jobs."

Yet the two-team system isn't all the answer. Figuring vitally in any L. I. U. success story is the type of coaching they get.

Bee has one very definite policy, and he has stuck to that throughout his eight seasons at the Brooklyn school. He teaches his boys to shoot baskets—more baskets than the other fellow. Since 1933, the Black-Birds have won 128 games out of 138 while scoring 6,841 points to the opposition's 3,724.

The next team to try to outshoot the Blackbirds will be the Rockets of Toledo university, who meet L. I. U. in half of a Madison Square Garden doubleheader tonight. L. I. U. beat Marquette without benefit of scouting. Bee himself scouted the Rockets, and has mapped out their plays and his own defenses on a miniature court. In view of that, from this corner it looks like a tough night for Toledo and 12 straight for Long Island U.

WEAK LEADERS SHOW GAINS OF 1 TO 3 POINTS

Comeback Halts Worst Beating Market Has Absorbed Since September.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market got back some of its courage today and weak leaders of the past week registered recoveries of 1 to 3 points.

Rising were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Douglas Aircraft, N. Y. Central, Anaconda, Westinghouse, DuPont, Johns-Manville, Montgomery Ward and Consolidated Edison.

The come-back was attributed partly to the fact the market had taken its worst beating this week since last September and was due for at least a temporary technical upward reversal.

Bonds and commodities were a bit mixed. Foreign markets did better all around.

Boardrooms noted merchandising reviews which said retail spending, while gaining in some lines, continued to lag behind the volume of a year ago.

On the cloudy side also was a further shrinkage of commercial loans as reported by Federal Reserve member banks in New York City for the week ended Wednesday.

of Ohio Northern university of Ada, will be the commencement speaker and will address the 92 graduates on "The Gateway To Life."

Louis Bromfield, American novelist who recently returned to Mansfield after 14 years in France, will be a guest and will be presented. Introductions will be made by W. L. Miller, superintendent of schools.

Rev. Paul Hollingshead, of Central Methodist Episcopal church, will ask the invocation and the benediction. The Senior high school orchestra, under the direction of S. K. Jorgenson, will play the processional and the recessional.

The salutation will be given by William Fishback, president of the graduating class. Miss Kathleen MacIntosh, a member of the class who has won recognition as a singer, will present Puccini's aria 'One Fine Day" from "Madame Butterfly". Miss Louise Krause will be her accompanist.

Jesse Beer, principal of Senior high school will present members of the class for graduation.

The January class is comprised of 42 boys and 44 girls.

SEEKS TO LIMIT HOSPITAL STAYS

Mayor Says He'll Call on Staff Doctors to Speed Release of Indigent Patients.

because physicians refused to release them.

The city has a contract with the staff physicians at an annual rate of $5,000 for surgical and medical care for indigent patients committed to the hospital.

Dr. Rehder, who was told yesterday that the city had only $7,641 to spend for hospitalization of city cases during 1939 because of $7,358 in unpaid bills which would have to be met from this year's appropriations, said today that "stringent economy measures" were to be taken at once by his department to meet the mayor's demand.

"With only about 50 per cent of the year's appropriation available, we are going to have to confine the hospital cases strictly to emergency cases," he said.

Dr. Rehder explained that this would include those cases that would be impossible to care for at the home because of surgical operations.

He pointed out that in order to trim the hospital bill immediate steps would be taken to have all possible cases transferred to a convalescent home where rates are lower. The city pays $4.25 per day for each indigent patient.

In order that a daily check can be made on all cases in the hospital, Dr. Rehder said that a daily report would be presented to Service-Safety Director Nist concerning the status of each case to allow for authorization of a confinement period of more than 10 days if deemed necessary.

"Dr. Walter Merz, assistant commissioner, will make a daily visit to the hospital to check each case and the report will be made with his recommendations," Dr. Rehder said.

WITNESS CITED BY GRAND JURY

Gives Testimony in Robbery Case Leading to Indictment on Blackmail Charge.

from promised protection from kidnaping charges against the two youths. Prosecutor Marriott said.

The Hunter boys were accused of taking Anderson in a car to a shack in the northeast section of the city and robbing him of his clothing and assaulting him.

Four men, including three from Ashland, were indicted for grand larceny in the theft of scrap iron from the plant of the Mansfield Shale Products company in Weller township three weeks ago.

They are Marvin Kane, 31, and Dewey Kane, 40, brothers; and Paul Stutz, 24, all of Ashland, and Walter S. Haun, 19, of near Mansfield. The men walked into a trap at the plant and were captured by the proprietors and Sheriff E. P. Long.

Indicted In Seed Thefts.

In another group indictment, bills were returned against John W. Bell, Harold Courts and Lavern Huber for breaking and entering. The trio allegedly stole 14 bushels of clover seed from a farm in Butler township.

Other indictments returned by the jury were:

Harold Young, Ray Johnson, James McClaskey, Jacob Morganstein, John Morganstein, and Wendall Graszl, for breaking and entering; Jay Hunter and Merlin Hunter, robbery; Fred Snyder, perjury; Fred Warren, Roy Barnes and Joseph Gray, non-support; and Richard Roser, aiding and abetting in a breaking and entering case.

The jurors examined 45 witnesses in its two-day session. H. F. Lampert, 129 East Fourth street, was foreman.

The prosecutor said another session of the jury would be called before the end of the present court term early in April.

Faced with four possible charges, Carl Spayde, 20, Knox county farm youth, was indicted for shooting with intent to wound. The charge grew out of a shooting affray Monday night at a "belling" party for Spayde's father, Fred Spayde, at his home near Bellville.

The youth allegedly fired a revolver at his 23-year-old stepmother, with whom he admitted "keeping company" before she was married to his father about two weeks ago. Young Spayde fled in his father's car after he shooting. He admitted forging a $20 check to purchase clothes for the party.

The jurors refused to indict Herbert Woodbury, colored, who was accused of cutting with intent to wound.

Assignment Tomorrow.

All but two of the persons under open indictments were in the county jail today, and their arraignment before Judge Huston was set for 9 a. m. tomorrow.

The jury's recommendation for a courthouse elevator was in line with a program of the Richland County Bar association which last month endorsed a proposal for the installation of the elevator and the later construction of a courthouse and jail.

County commissioners said today they favored the elevator and jail improvement plan but could see no money available for the projects this year.

"After we begin to collect the levy for care of tuberculosis patients next year, we may be able to shift funds formerly used for that purpose for a building program to include the improvements recommended by the jury," C. L. Mitchell, chairman of the board of commissioners, asserted.

He estimated the county would have $25,000 more available for other purposes after the tuberculosis levy, voted last fall, goes into effect in 1940.

Mitchell said he would favor the employment of an engineer to figure the cost of the proposed improvements.

CHECKS READY

Pension Payments Expected to be in Mails by Monday.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Mailing of January checks to Ohio's 112,000 aged pensioners probably will be started Monday, Mayson Hayhurst, office manager for the state auditor, said today.

Although federal funds to match state grants for the first quarter of 1939 have been allocated, Hayhurst said the check had not been received although it was expected shortly. He said preparation of checks had been delayed because of hundreds of minor changes in the amounts.

POWERS GIRDING FOR SHOWDOWN IN NEW CRISIS

Wait Next Move by Hitler and Mussolini, British Cabinet Session Called.

would advance demands for appeasement simultaneously, possibly within the next week.

An official Italian statement two weeks ago said the issue between Italy and France could not be dealt with until the end of the Spanish war. Fascists today considered that the war virtually ended with the capture of Barcelona by the insurgents.

Duce Says 'We Will Pass.'

Premier Mussolini told Fascists celebrating the victory of the Italian-aided Spaniards before his palace last night that "we have passed and we will pass." Fascists widely interpreted this to be an indication he believed the time was now opportune to bring the Italian-French dispute to a head.

Il Popoli Di Roma oserved that "the world knows Italy will pass. It will pass over and beyond every 'jamais" both in Spain and outside Spain."

The newspaper's use of the word "jamais"—French for "never"—was an allusion to the declaration of the French foreign minister, Georges Bonnet, that France never would yield an inch of her territory.

Some sources felt that Hitler when he addresses the reichstag Monday, would fully support Italy's territorial claims against France as a reward for Italy's usefulness to Germany during the past year.

Hitler's reichstag speech is being awaited with utmost eagerness by London, where it was felt the fuehrer's words at least will clarify the situation and enable a "realignment of ideas," particularly in the light of the insurgent capture of Barcelona.

Britain, France Wait.

At the same time, it was emphasized that British official quarters are fully aware of the implications of Barcelona's collapse and that the British government is maintaining the closest possible contact and co-operation with Paris. This is being done, it was stated, "in a determined effort to protect British and French rights."

The vigorous speeches of home secretary Sir Samuel Hoare, Premier Edouard Daladier of France and French Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet were viewed as an attempt to check-rein totalitarian ambitions.

It is now anticipated Chamberlain will refer only briefly in his speech tomorrow to foreign affairs, reserving a full statement on British policy for Tuesday's debate in the house of commons.

In his speech at Swansea, South Wales, Sir Samuel declared Britain could beat any aggressor, warned that British morale is high and urged panic-mongers to quit being "jitterbugs."

Addressing Hitler and Mussolini without mentioning them by name, Sir Samuel declared:

"No air attack will ever destroy our will to resist. I believe on the contrary any such attempt will increase by a hundredfold our determination to vanquish the aggressor...

"Let those ponder who say we have grown weary with age and feeble in power. So they thought in 1914. They had a rule awaking."

Insurgents Issue Government Decrees.

BARCELONA—(U.P.)—Gen. Jose Davila, commanding the Nationalist army in Catalonia, annuled all Loyalist appointments and decrees in the area today, demanded the immediate surrender of arms, munitions, explosives, public documents and illegally acquired valuables and intimated that courts martial would be set up at once to try captured Loyalist leaders.

Davila announced the annulment of all orders and appointment of the Loyalists since July 18, 1936, the day after the start of the civil war. All who disobeyed his orders, Davila said, would be considered rebels and traitors.

"Military law will be applied by competent Nationalist tribunals," his proclamation continued.

The Nationalist troops were orderly. Normal operations of the city resumed.

Authorities announced a mass food distribution for this afternoon, and a gala military review.

One of the first acts of the Nationalist authorities was to order all members of the legendary "fifth column" of Fascists, who had operated secretly in Barcelona since the beginning of the civil war, to report to central headquarters.

Troops and food trucks poured into the city in the wake of the advance units which captured it yesterday, and word was awaited of the arrival of Generalissimo Francisco Franco for a triumphant formal entry.

Rain Adds to Misery Of Fleeing Loyalists.

BULLETIN

PERPIGNAN, French-Spanish Frontier—(U.P.)—The armies of Gen. Francisco Franco smashed at shattered loyalist lines with tanks, artillery and aerial bombs today in a drive to crush the last defense lines in the northeast corner of Catalonia.

PERPIGNAN, France —(AP)— A cold drizzling rain added another touch of misery today to tens of thousands of Spaniards milling about in northern Catalonian towns homeless and hungry after having been evacuated from the Barcelona area.

Streams of travelworn, bewildered refugees still were pouring northward in one of the most tragic phases of the two and a half year old civil war.

The government of Spain was slowly reorganizing after the stunning blow it received when Generalissimo Francisco Franco captured Barcelona, the former capital.

President Manuel Azana was reported to be still in Catalonia. Premier Juan Negrin and Foreign Minister Julio Alvarez Del Vayo located in a town which they asked not be identified.

(Negrin was said by French border officials yesterday to have gone to La Junquera, close to the French frontier).

From tiny crowded rooms in small villages they began again to administer the affairs of government Spain which until this week they had directed from luxurious offices in Barcelona.

Negrin set up shop in a small room. Over the door was scribbled in red pencil: "president of the cabinet of ministers."

REVIEW DATE SET

SHELBY—Shelby Boy Scout district board of review will be held at 7:30 p. m. Monday at the office of Supt. C. G. Keck at the high school. Supt. Keck, board chairman, will preside. The court of honor will be held Feb. 1 during the Father-Scout banquet.

New Union Head

R. J. Thomas, above, of Detroit, takes over the reins of the United Automobile Workers of America following the deposing of Homer Martin as president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations. Martin, storm center of a fight within the U. A. W., charged that CIO chieftain, John L. Lewis, was splitting the forces of labor by "dictatorial policies." He insisted he was still president of the union and said an "overwhelming majority" of members were behind him in his fight with the "majority clique" of the U. A. W. executive board.

ASHLAND GIRL TAKEN BY DEATH

ASHLAND — Miss Charlcie Bull, 22, died here early today at Samaritan hospital following an illness of four weeks.

Born Sept. 16, 1916 in Marys county, Mo., Miss Bull had lived in Ashland since last April, and made her home here with a brother Clifford. She was a member of the Christian church at Dickson, Mo.

A LOAN TO THINK ABOUT

We are of the opinion that you can make one of our loans pay for itself by cashing in on today's bargain sales. For instance, a loan of $500 payable monthly for a year costs less than $70. You are likely to save that much or more on many a cash opportunity. Perhaps save enough to pay for a loan of six or seven hundred dollars so that you can square up all your bills and debts at the same time. Think it over. Check today's bargains. Depend on us for the cash.

CAPTURED CITY WAITS ITS FATE

Barcelona Wonders If Franco Will Be 'Butcher' or 'Man of the Hour.'

cadet at the Alcazar in Toledo, which is Spain's West Point.

He is stocky, but powerfully built, swarthy and with piercing black eyes. Unlike the two dictators, Hitler and Mussolini, who have aided him in the war, he is not a speechmaker.

At 23 Franco was in Morocco fighting the Riffs. His courage and coolness won the admiration of both friends and foes—so that when he wanted the Moors to rally to his aid under the insurgent flag, it was not difficult to persuade them to follow a leader whom they respected.

At 42 he had won two nicknames—which were diametrically opposed. In 1934 he was called into the provinces of Asturias and Catalonia to put down the riots and the strikes which swept over them after the insurgent government had taken them over

He put them down — with a mailed fist, bringing in his foreign legionnaires to mop up. When he got through in the two provinces, he had won his nicknames—"El Carnicero" (The Butcher) from the leftists or Loyalists he had crushed, and "The Man of the Hour" from the rightists, or the insurgents of Spain. The name El Carnicero explains the stubborn resistance his armies have met in these two provinces.

His administrative ability is best demonstrated by the peace that he has kept among his followers of divergent politics—as diversified as any in Europe. The insurgents is made up of the big land owners, the church, and the opposing factions of monarchists—the followers of Old Spain and of ex-King Alfonso, and the Carlists, followers of late Don Carlos, Bourbon pretender to the Spanish and French thrones. It has been Franco, the soldier, who has kept these forces loyal to the insurgent cause.

Franco prefers the simple title of "El Caudillo," The Chief. What title or position he will assume when and if the war is ended victoriously for him, remains to be seen.

While there has been rumors that Don Juan, son of Alphonso, may be set up as official head of Spain, there is little doubt but that Franco will be the actual head of the government. While he once said "My place is with the army as a soldier, not as a politician," it is generally conceded that he is the one man strong enough to hold the insurgents in power.

Franco is expected to follow the line of his New Year's declaration that "the future Spain will be an armed Spain." He is also expected to demand that the new Spain be treated as a major power in the Mediterranean.

He has built up a powerful army of more than a half million, seasoned and tough campaigners—versed in all of the aspects of modern warfare, so that his demands will be something more than a "cry in the wilderness."

Today all jurisdictional matters were placed under the supreme control of the "Auditoria"—the judicial branch of the army.

Prisoners taken in battle and civilians surrendering after the occupation will be placed in concentration camps and their cases tried by the Auditoria. This body will decide which cases will be freed and which will be tried by the civil courts or before a court martial.

Persons known to have been guilty of murder and assassination that would include Loyalist soldiers will be summarily executed. To the leftists at least, to the conquered Loyalists, he probably will still be "El Carnicero."

State Distributes 40,000 Rabbits, So Hunting'll Be Good

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Rabbit hunting in Ohio should be good next season.

Distribution of 40,000 northern Missouri cottontails throughout the state will be completed this week, a conservation division announcement said today.

Don Waters, conservation commissioner, said the Missouri rabbits were purchased at a cost of $20,000. About 5,000 Ohio rabbits trapped on game management areas also will be released throughout the state, Waters said.

Waters said the conservation division hoped eventually to trap as many as 25,000 Ohio rabbits for distribution in areas reporting game shortage.

CASE CONTINUED

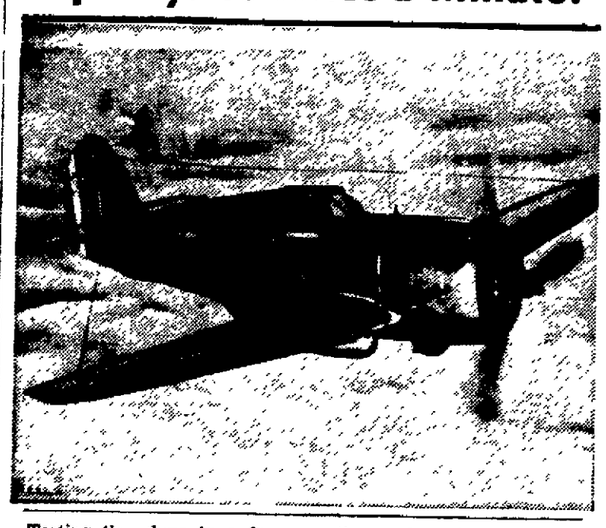
Jury Recessed As $143 Judgment Suit Is Delayed Indefinitely.

With a $143 judgment suit, set for trial today in common pleas court, continued indefinitely, the county petit jury today was recessed for at least 10 days.

Attorneys in a judgment suit against Richard Wheitner, dry cleaning shop proprietor, for wages alleged due a 14-year-old Mansfield youth, were granted continuance of the case late yesterday. George Burgess is the plaintiff.

Because Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston will go to Cleveland Monday to sit on the Cuyahoga county common pleas court bench, no jury cases are scheduled for next week.

Speedy? 10 Miles a Minute!



Testing the plane in a free-power dive for the French government at Buffalo, N. Y., Pilot Lloyd Child flew this heavily-armored Curtiss-Hawk 75-A pursuit plane at nearly 600 miles per hour. He hit 575 miles per hour for sure and possibly more. The previous top speed was that made by Francesco Angello of Italy, who averaged 440.68 miles per hour over a three-kilometer course in level flight in October, 1934.

merely had wished to make speeches.

In yesterday's debate—the most vigorous since consideration of the relief bill started Tuesday—several members engaged in sharp exchanges.

Senator Adams (D-Colo) spoke in angry tones when he said that WPA workers were being urged to telegraph senators in support of an $875,000,000 appropriation.

On two floors of the WPA headquarters here, Adams said, bulletins were posted bearing the words:

"Spend 25 cents. Send a telegram to your senator today. Protest WPA appropriation cuts. Protest civil service ban of WPA employes. Protect your job."

Senator McKellar (D., Tenn.), an advocate of the larger appropriation, hurried to a phone to question Col. F. C. Harrington, WPA administrator. He reported shortly that Harrington said he had no knowledge of the bulletin and that he was sorry it had been posted.

Later, WPA local number 1, United Federal Workers of America (CIO), issued a statement saying that representatives of the union had posted the telegram forms "on special bulletin boards which are reserved for union notices exclusively."

It added the WPA itself did not sponsor the forms. The statement continued:

"The union feels that each employe does have a right, as guaranteed by law, to petition congress, both as a worker and as an American citizen, in matters vitally affecting his welfare."

Barkley read a letter from Harrington yesterday denying that a $56,000,000 mistake had been made in compiling the relief appropriation estimate, as Adams had charged.

Although the debate has developed some verbal fireworks, most of the battle has been carried on in cloakroom and corridor conferences. So many telegrams have piled senate desks that many senators have quit trying to read them.

NLRB HITS FORD

Auto Company to Be Ordered to Rehire 29 Workers.

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The national labor relations board today issued a "proposed" finding and order directing the Ford Motor company at Dearborn, Mich., to stop interfering with self organization of its employes, and to reinstate with back pay 29 workers discharged for union activities.

Under the proposed order, the Ford company is given 30 days to file exceptions to the findings and request oral argument before the board in Washington. If exceptions and arguments by the Ford company cannot change the position of the labor board, today's proposed order will become the basis of a final order on Ford.

In the event of a final order, the Ford company must carry its fight to court.

GERMANY—SIX YEARS UNDER HITLER'S RULE

Nazis Claim Production in Industries 242 Per Cent Greater Than in '32.

(Editor's Note: Following is another of a series of dispatches in connection with the sixth anniversary on Monday of the Nazi regime in Germany.)

By PAUL KECSKEMETI
(UP Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN—The keynote of Germany's economic recovery program under the six-year-old Nazi regime is production.

Nazis — who on next Monday will observe the sixth anniversary of Fuehrer Adolf Hitler's rise to power—are emphasizing the necessity of producing, of providing employment and of developing new industries. From a statistical viewpoint, they report that industrial production in 1938 was 242 per cent above 1932 and that unemployment has decreased by more than 5,000,000.

On the other hand, party leaders have called upon the nation to endure shortages of certain foods and to use substitute materials.

Butter and fats are rationed. Eggs are scarce. Certain kinds of meat and fruits are difficult to obtain. Coffee shortages have been frequent.

Trade Still Depressed.

Foreign trade still is depressed. For some time Germany has been unable to maintain a balance of exports and imports and her adverse trade balance for 1938 is estimated at some $160,000,000. Farm production has increased but farm imports have decreased despite the boost of the German population to 80,000,000 by annexation of Austria and the Sudetenland.

Germany has built more than 1,400 miles of automobile highroads, and another 1,400 miles are under construction. A formidable air force has been produced and materials have been supplied for an army of more than a million men.

New industries have been started under the self-sufficiency program. Such as the artificial wool industry; and others, such as the synthetic gasoline industry, have been developed. Gasoline production has been doubled since 1932.

Coal, iron and steel production, the backbone of German industry, have increased.

Between 1932 and 1937, coal production rose from 104,700,000 tons to 184,500,000 tons; pig-iron production from 3,932,000 tons to 16,000,000 tons; and steel production, from 5,652,000 tons to 19,387,000 tons.

Steel production in 1938 is estimated at more than 20,000,000 tons, or over 20 per cent of world production. Much of this steel went to machinery of war.

Mountain Widow Defies Law's Attempt to Seize Cabin

FOR THIS . . .

(By Associated Press)

CONIFER, Col.—When the spring thaws come a showdown is scheduled between a mountain-dwelling widow and "the law."

The law—the state land board—wants the log-cabin site of 65-year-old Mrs. Le Ora Orr.

Says Mrs. Orr:

"After building it with my own hands and living in it for 30 years I won't give up my home without a struggle."

The land board, with a supreme court decision behind it now, has claimed for 10 years that the Orrs built their place on school land through a surveyor's error and has sought to oust Mrs. Orr.

Two eviction orders, no good after 90 days, have expired in the desk of Sheriff Willis Morris. With a third gathering dust there, the sheriff says:

"The snow's too deep now to be running around in the hills with a simple eviction order. When the thaw comes maybe we'll get around to serving it."

State Attorney General Byron Rogers thinks the sheriff "feels sorry" for Mrs. Orr and has warned that "if he doesn't serve it we'll take drastic action." He added such action meant a citation for contempt that might put the sheriff behind his own bars.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Orr observes that a person makes a lot of hill folk friends in years of living on a mountain—and ventures the opinion she'll be in the old home for some time. Then she tells about the time she got out a small-bore rifle and chased away a man to whom the land board had given a lease on the land she claims.

And while the land board frets at the delay, Mrs. Orr just rocks in her chair beside the window—from where she can get a good view of all the pathways to her valley—and observes:

"I'll be sitting here whenever they come—and my friends will be up on Black Mountain behind my place."

. . . SHE'S READY TO FIGHT

COURT REJECTS HAGUE'S APPEAL

High Tribunal Affirms Order Preventing Jersey From Banning CIO Meetings.

(By Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA—Mayor Frank Hague lost in the third circuit court of appeals yesterday his fight to keep the CIO from holding public meetings in Jersey City, N. J.

The court, in a two to one decision, affirmed the decree of Federal Judge William Clark preventing the city from interfering with CIO meetings or speakers.

The decision made certain modifications in Judge Clark's decree which did not affect the general object to the injunction.

The modifications included:

1. Holding unconstitutional the Jersey City ordinance regulating public meetings. (Judge Clark had not decided whether the ordinance was valid.)

2. Holding unconstitutional an ordinance prohibiting the distribution of circulars. (Judge Clark also had not ruled on the validity of this local law.)

3. Striking out of Judge Clark's decree a clause that police could not halt CIO meetings unless all similar public meetings were banned.

SHOWS TEACHERS' TRAINING AND EXPERIENCE LEVELS CLIMBING

The days when school teachers can get jobs in Mansfield schools with only two years of normal training are nearly over.

Supt. W. L. Miller of the city schools, whose objective is to boost the training and experience levels of Mansfield teachers, produced figures today to show that only 38 of the 220 teachers in the city's public schools have less than three years' training.

Eight of the 220 teachers have less than two years of teaching experience. Six of the eight are elementary teachers and the other two are vocational instructors in Senior high school.

When he found that the cadet system, used in Mansfield schools in recent years, was adding to the number of two-year teachers, he discouraged the plan.

Now, there are only five cadet teachers in the school system. The cadets are given part-time employment at a small wage with the promise of permanent jobs when they are available. Most of the cadets started with only two years training.

Forty of the city's teachers have five years or more of college training, and 23 of that number are at Senior high school. Thirty-two of the 48 junior high school instructors have had four years or more but less than five years of college work. Thirteen more have five years or more of college training.

It is in the ranks of the elementary teachers that Supt. Miller sees the need for more professional instruction. Of the 114 grade teachers in the city, 36 have attended college four years or more, and only four have received five or more years of college work.

Two teachers in the city have taught for 40 years or more, while the largest number, or 54, are in the classification with from four to seven years teaching experience.

Twenty-seven teachers have taught for more than 25 years, and of that number only seven are in elementary schools. The two with 40-year service records, however, are elementary teachers. There are 50 teachers with from eight to 11 years of classroom experience.

The teacher classification shows 114 grade teachers, 48 junior high and 48 Senior high instructors

Ethiopia Sends Italy More Raw Materials, Food

ROME—(U.P.)—Repeatedly dubbed "Fascism's White Elephant," Ethiopia is paradoxically enough contributing to the realization of Italy's self-sufficiency campaign.

According to recently published statistics, the imperial territories supplied Italy with its entire national requirement of bananas and 96 per cent of formerly foreign purchased sponges during the first nine months of 1938.

Other contributions to Italy's autarchic program, according to these statistics, are about half of the raw mother-of-pearl required by local industries, 32 per cent of the dun palm seeds used in the manufacture of buttons, more than 30 per cent of the raw hides and almost 8 per cent of the coffee imThe dun palm seeds replace the so-called "tagua" formerly purchased in Central America. Brazilian coffee sales to Italy are hardly affected because most of the Ethiopian coffee is used for export.

Furthermore it is pointed out that approximately 27½ per cent of Italy's dried fruits also come from Italian East Africa.

Fascism is convinced that Ethiopia in the not too far distant future will supply Italy with most of its agricultural and some of its mineral requirements — formerly supplied by foreign nations. ported into Italy.

Beware Coughs from common colds That Hang On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your common cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you may get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel germ-laden phlegm.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained. Creomulsion is one word, ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

You often hear of the vanity of women but here are two books that prove that men and boys can be just as vain, especially when it comes to clothes.

"Benjie's Hat" by Mabel Leigh Hunt is the story of a little boy who went to live with his Quaker grandmother. He was forced by circumstances to wear various hats, but the final insult came when his grandfather's beaver hat was cut down for him and he had to wear it. His greatest ambition was to have a hat made especially for him.

"Copper-Toed Boots" by Marguerite de Angeli is really the story of the author's father's childhood in Michigan. His greatest ambition was to own a pair of copper-toed boots.

Needless to say, both Benjie and Shad got their wish.

SEWER DIVISION ENDS 1938 WITH $5,445 PROFIT

Garbage Department Operates at Loss for 8th Straight Year, Records Show.

The city of Mansfield's sanitary sewer department wound up 1938 with a profit of $5,445, while the garbage division ended with a $429 loss. It was the eighth consecutive year the garbage department failed to make both ends meet.

Both departments, which are supposed to be self-sustaining, carried over a slight surplus, however, City Auditor Paul L. Kelley said, due to supplemental appropriations which were made during the year.

The auditor's records showed that the sanitary sewer department which started the year with an unencumbered balance of $1,782 finished 1938 with a surplus of $7,227, netting a profit of $5,445.

Receipts from sewer rentals during the 12-month period totaled $44,407, while expenditures were listed at $38,961.

First 12-Month Total.

Kelley explained that the receipts were the first for a 12-month period as the department was set up on a rental basis following the completion of the sewage treatment plant in March, 1937.

The department boosted its revenue slightly by increasing the number of accounts which now total more than 10,000. In 1937 the number was about 9,500.

Expenditures went largely for the operation of the treatment plant and the maintenance of the sanitary sewer system. It did not include extensions in the system, however, which are financed by appropriations set up by city council.

The garbage department began 1938 with a balance of $5,655 and wound up the year with $5,226, for a net loss of $429.

Kelley listed receipts from the service maintained for an average of 3,600 customers at $32,329. Expenditures totaled $32,758.

ASHLAND POLICE SHOW GAIN FOR ARRESTS IN '38

210 Reported by Chief for Year; 38 Burglaries, 187 Accidents Checked.

ASHLAND—Local police made a total of 210 arrests in 1938 for an increase of five over 1937, it was revealed here in the annual report issued by Herman D. Fetzer, chief of police. The totals dropped considerably from the number made in 1936, when there were 305.

The report shows that there were 537 calls answered during 1938, that there were 187 accidents reported, being 89 less than in 1937, and that 125 articles were reported stolen or lost.

In 1938, burglaries investigated by the local police totaled 38, while the year previous there were 37; there were five persons arrested for grand larceny, and 31 for petit larceny in the year just past, while arrests for intoxication dropped from 113 to 85.

In the report it was revealed that there were 24 automobiles stolen in 1938, that of the 13 bicycles stolen, all but one was recovered and returned to their owners.

200 Expected at Lexington for County Christian Endeavor Society Sessions.

More than 200 young people from Mansfield and nearby towns are expected to attend a Richland County Christian Endeavor rally Sunday at the Presbyterian church in Lexington.

Rev. W. Elbert Starn of Cleveland, director of religious education for the Church of Christ in Ohio, will be the principal speaker. The theme of the rally will be "Peace In These Times."

The afternoon meeting begins at 3 p. m. and the evening session at 7:30. Rev. Starn will speak at both meetings. Fred H. Ott of Shelby, vice president of the Richland county union will preside at the evening session.

Awards will be given to the society having the largest percentage of its members present and plans will be made for Richland county's part in the International Christian Endeavor convention to be held in Cleveland in June.

John Zehner of Shenandoah is chairman of the committee in charge of Sunday's rally. Young people are expected from Lexington, Mansfield, Plymouth, Shelby, Shenandoah and Rome.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 27, 1939.

It's about now that the "first robin" wishes it wasn't.

Modern version: "A dollar in the bank is worth a hundred on a horse."

One great physicist believes the human race is at "an early stage in its evolution"—as might be suspected when you take a look around.

Big Job Capably Done.

THE four-and-a-half years during which Paul W. Williams has been secretary-manager of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce have been difficult ones.

While Mansfield has been fortunate in escaping the depth of depression suffered by a number of other cities, the effect of national conditions could not be entirely avoided here, and the work of the Chamber of Commerce was especially vital during this period.

A glance through the list of civic accomplishments of the past few years, with which the Chamber of Commerce was actively associated, gives an idea of the important part that this organization plays in contributing to the general welfare of this city along many lines of endeavor.

Growth in Chamber of Commerce membership in recent years also evidences steadily growing appreciation of the need of sustaining the work of this organization, as well as further development of a fine community spirit and a willingness to co-operate in all matters having to do with civic progress.

In the things that have been done by the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce in this four-and-a-half years it may be sincerely said that Paul W. Williams, as secretary-manager, has been a valuable factor and has made clear the need for having a trained, capable, energetic, enthusiastic and sound-thinking man on this job.

Unfortunately, in a way, this is one of the positions in which permanent tenure is not assured—as other cities are on the lookout for good men for places of larger responsibilities and greater compensation.

While there is regret that Mr. Williams is to leave Mansfield there is also satisfaction in the thought that his work here has been such as to gain recognition essential to selection for the Dayton position.

When Confidence Is Misplaced.

CHARGES of embezzlement, forgery and destruction of public records have resulted in the indictment of the Ashland county treasurer and his son, who was former chief deputy.

Indictment, it should be understood, does not constitute proof of guilt—it merely shows that evidence submitted to the grand jury was deemed sufficient to require that the accused persons stand trial.

As in other cases in which charges of official malfeasance are involved, it may well be hoped that the indicted men are shown to be not guilty of the offenses charged against them.

Election or appointment to a position of public trust, which involves either the handling of money or the performance of specific duties, expresses confidence in the character, will power and honesty of persons chosen to assume such responsibilities.

It is recognized, in a general way, that some persons can be depended upon and that others must be "watched." When a person is elected or appointed to office, however, it is assumed that he or she can be "trusted," and people very much dislike finding that their confidence has been misplaced—as it sometimes is.

Few things in human experience are more disheartening than to find that some official or other employe regarded as honest and dependable was too weak-willed to resist the common temptations associated with handling public money or performing the duties of office.

College Course for Fishermen.

THERE is to be a new course this semester at Teachers college, Columbia university. It is a course in fishing and will include everything from baits and lures to cooking and mounting the catch. Advanced work in the theory and technique of fresh water angling will give instruction in the latest equipment, methods and practices.

Critics of such educational innovations, who recall that Teachers college has previously been accused of teaching baseball, poultry raising and piano tuning, are likely to call the whole thing nonsense. In defense of Columbia let it be said that the angling course and some of these other odd-sounding studies are part of the training in "camp leadership." They are not substitutes for intellectual courses.

Thirty-Five Cent Meals.

GOVERNOR W. L. O'DANIEL of Texas brings dismay to state employes by announcing that he will not approve expense accounts listing more than 35 cents for meals. He is quite consistent about it. That is all he pays himself, he says, and if other office-holders don't know where to find the 35-cent places, he'll show them.

Food seems to be cheap in Texas. Plenty of office-holders in other states, especially in the north and east, will be wondering what they would do if the rule were applied to them.

Probably they'd be dining at a serve-self or sitting on a high stool at a quick-lunch counter. And, except when they were all tired out working for the public and needed a little extra care and provender, that probably wouldn't hurt them.

Built and Paid For.

PAYING off the last of the indebtedness on the Mansfield high school stadium is an achievement that shouldn't be overlooked.

This venture was entered upon back in 1927, when there was a prevalent notion that if communities wanted such things they should plan to pay for them.

The idea was that the stadium should be paid for out of revenues derived from football games and other athletic events held therein.

This has been done. Congratulations to those who did it.

Even a broadcast from Mars is unlikely—to say nothing of an invasion.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—Back of the administration's demand for elimination of tax-exempt securities is a lot more than a mere effort to make life tough for economic royalists.

Years ago when the Government debt—state and federal—amounted to only a few billion dollars, the tax-exemption privilege was not a really serious matter. But now that this public debt has reached a total of $65,000,000,000 (Treasury estimate), it is something else again. As the Treasury sees it:

1—Billions of private capital which might otherwise hunt a place for private investment now can hide safely and profitably in untaxed Government securities.

2—The Federal Government loses much real revenue. If the same money were invested in private bonds, much of the income would yield high surtaxes. If compelled to seek a private spot for investment, this capital would create new industry and thus reduce the relief load.

Plenty of Arguments.

THERE are arguments against repealing the exemption and the Senate Finance Committee already has arranged to hear them soon.

The Government's case largely is this:

Right when there is a real need for enterprising business men to use their wealth to start new industry, the wealth instead has been shoved into the taxless safety of Government bonds.

But business men argue that it is mighty lucky the money was ready for investment in Government bonds when the depression hit. How could the relief billions have been raised otherwise?

Also, these business investors argue, it is not a bad idea to have considerable investment capital confidently resting in Government securities. Unlike private securities, these Government securities will not suddenly be dumped on a panicky market when a depression comes.

State officials also are protesting any change. They will have to pay increased interest rates on new issues of state bonds to offset the federal taxes. The Treasury agrees that is so. The federal interest rates also will climb. The Treasury, however, claims the states will get at least part of the money back by taxing income from federal bonds. They can't now.

Menace State Sovereignty.

THE states further protest that federal taxation of income from state bonds will menace state sovereignty. ("The power to tax is the power to destroy"—an assertion which some deny). The Treasury's answer is that such a states-rightest as Senator Glass of Virginia urged elimination of the exemption when he was secretary of the treasury.

The Treasury has calculated that only people in high income brackets can profit from tax exemption of bond income. It figures that a man with a net income of $500,000 a year can earn more money from Government securities paying 3 per cent than he can from taxable private securities paying 10 per cent. The difference is taken by the 50 to 70 per cent rates in the upper tax ranges.

The turnover will not be abrupt. Only new issues will lose the exemption.

Industrialists' questions as to why they should risk their money of the Government takes most of their earnings have reached important ears in Washington, where more heed is paid these past few weeks to the need of encouraging big as well as little business men to start job-making enterprises.

Who'll Be the REAL Winner?

The Human Side of the News

—By EDWIN C. HILL

TEACHERS COLLEGE, of Columbia University, installs a course in fishing, starting this next semester. There's no catch in it and anybody can bite. The boys, and presumably the girls, will be grounded in the history and modern techniques of angling by Dr. Francis D'Eliscue and Professor John Alden Knight of the new fishing faculty.

There's no word in the news about academic credits. Presumably, there will be the usual allotment on the score board of one hour for two hours of laboratory work. Or will they be able to use the standard methods of collegiate grading? It is conceivable that some not too bright but just naturally lucky candidate for a doctorate in Piscatorial Philosophy might catch more fish than anybody else, without knowing a spinner from a backleash. Such things do happen. Would they dish the cum laude according to weight and size of the catch? And what about the lad who flunks his black bass but snags his sailfish?

THE new course in fishing carries a slightly disturbing suggestion that the college dons are just being realistic in preparing their charges for after life. It is obvious that a youth, coming out of college with a Phi Beta Kappa key, and finding it non-negotiable, would be much better fitted to enjoy his leisure if he had majored in fishing. If we are educating more and more youngsters for inforced leisure, this new college course would seem to be quite a sensible idea. In fact, considering the over-supply of everything in the world, including college graduates, why shouldn't everybody knock off and go fishing for a year or two? And Columbia will show us how to do it in a nice way.

But I gather that this is not the main consideration in this venture in the newest of the new freedoms. There is sound and serious academic sanction for the innovation. In 1927, there was established a full-blown University of Fishing in Hull, England, with a large faculty and an elaborate curriculum of theoretical and practical and applied piscatology. At last accounts it was flourishing—turning away applicants for matriculation.

THIS University is, frankly, for the gentry. How you do a thing in England is sometimes more important than what you do. A cricketer may miss his catch, but if his form is good there is sure to be a cheer from the crowd, "well tried Spiffington!" It is just barely possible that we are being subtly Anglicized, what with all these trade agreements and off-stage credit deals and English lecturers coming over here and all that.

The British just about invented genteel fishing. As far back as 1600, we find their John Tavener writing on "Certaine Experiments Concerning Fish and Fruite," in which he emphasizes the niceties and proprieties of angling. Then there was Nicholas Cox's "The Gentleman's Recreation," written in 1674, in which the writer made it clear that fishing was for blue-bloods and mere oafs and yokels had better keep clear of it. And don't forget dear old Izaak Walton, with his gentle philosophy mixed in with sound fishing instruction. In fact, the English bibliography on genteel fishing—which Teachers College naturally will survey—is longer than the record fly cast. So, after all, trailing the mother country in culture and the humanities, it is possible that we are just beginning to catch up in a neglected detail.

BUT there is still another and possibly more plausible reason for the new courses in fishing. In our democratic tradition, they probably are training each and every boy to be president when his time comes. It seems that fishing is absolutely required recreation for the presidency. Calvin Coolidge was a hold-out for a while but finally yielded, a bit grimly, seeming even more unhappy than the fish he caught.

Quite scandalously, it seemed, he fished with worms, bringing a senatorial blast from Senator Borah on this profanation of an established ritual. Franklin Roosevelt needs no urging to hook the sturgeon, and no more did Herbert Hoover. President Taft was a casual fisherman, but he worked dutifully at it at his summer home after he became president. Theodore Roosevelt was more exultant as a hunter than a fisherman, but he passed his examinations. Grover Cleveland, fishing with his old pal Joe Jefferson on Buzzards Bay, just naturally loved it. Vice President Dawes, a vociferous defender of flies against worms, used to fish a great deal. And—Teachers College please note—the president who started it all was George Washington, fishing frequently as shown by repeated entries in his diary. Certainly any boy can be president—if he is prepared to do two things—go to church and go fishing.

Health Advice

Protect Old In Winter Weather.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

OLD people are very sensitive to changes in atmospheric conditions. The regulation of bodily temperature is unbalanced. They no longer burn their food with the same steady flame. The blood supply to the skin is diminished and does not fluctuate with weather changes.

Winter is the bad time with them. Quetelet drew up a table of over 400,000 cases, which showed that the largest number of deaths in people over sixty occurs in the months of December, January and February. That is undoubtedly why they seek asylum in California and Florida. And if circumstances permit, a winter trip to a warm climate pays for itself in increased comfort and even preservation of life.

If that is impossible, every effort should be made to save older people from draughts and sudden changes of temperature. Flannel or woolen clothes may be worn three-fourths of the year. And the young members of the household may have to set aside a warmer room for the habitation of their elders.

Walking Necessary.

This does not mean that the elders should be constantly pampered or that they should not get some fresh air and exercise. If an old man gives up his work and sits in a warm house, the lack of fresh air and exercise will cause many symptoms. A daily or twice-daily constitutional may need some persuasion but it pays dividends which even the object of the attentions will admit.

The best time for walking or other exercise is after breakfast, and short periods must be planned because the aged easily become fatigued. After luncheon, a stroll in the fresh air will ward off the feeling of stuffiness and sleepiness.

No hard and fast rules can be laid down for the habits of the elderly. And that goes without saying because the elderly themselves put out the most insurmountable obstacles to outside interference.

About sleeping especially, no rules can be formulated. An eminent author of my acquaintance wrote me that he had solved the problem of growing old gracefully. In his office and his library he had a couch installed, and whenever he feels like it, he takes a few minutes of "shut-eye." He says that is the best remedy for the afternoon let-down.

The elderly complain that they get no sleep at all, but usually they are deceiving themselves. A physician friend of mine tells of a woman of seventy who told him she had not slept for five nights. When he made his call on her he found her fast asleep. His entrance into the room awakened her, and she demanded a hypodermic of morphine instantly and denied that she had been sleeping.

Here an important word of warning should be noted. The aged respond very badly to the hypnotic drugs — especially the ones that are now more widely used than ever before—I mean the barbiturates such as amytal, medinal, numbutal, etc. They are liable to produce delirium and restlessness rather than relaxation.

The best sleep-producers for the old are warm drinks, such as warm milk, hot chocolate, or a glass of wine or beer.

The home care of the age is a difficult and trying task. In a review of plans for old age security, a magazine not long ago stated that a home with the young people was the best. But there are objections. The elders are inclined to resent new modes of life, and think themselves neglected if no attention is paid to them.

A Farmer's Diary

The Snow Man.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE SNOW had ceased to have its usual crimpy ring beneath my feet. Dark laden skies promised rain, and a thaw. I started to town, and as I turned from my drive to the main road the front wheels slid across it and narrowly escaped the ditch.

When I returned, two hours later, the older children were rolling a large snow ball down hill toward the barn. It took the thick snow blanket clean from the withered grass and made the heavy ball look like a new white mattress, rolled up well.

Most of the afternoon they were busy. They made forts and piled great heaps of snow balls behind them. It was not safe for a father to venture out, unless willing to be taken for fair game, or a flying target. After a few minutes exchange of such pleasantries, with snow down my neck, my breath coming hard, and my hat awry, I repaired to the warm living room and became absorbed in writing. They came, toward dusk, to invite me to come out again, but I was busy, and could not be bothered.

That was yesterday. This morning when I had made the fires, and reached for my hat, it was not to be found upon its accustomed nail. I pulled on a youngster's stocking cap and looked for the broom to sweep the snow off the porch and make a path to the barn. The broom was gone.

Muttering dire paternal threats against children in general and my own brood in particular, I went barnward.

There beside the big shed door loomed a gigantic white snowman. Beside him I was a mere pygmy. He was a veritable Paul Bunyan. He wore my old hat atilt over one shining eye, and held the missing broom firmly in one arm. I looked closer. My wife's thimbles had made that realistic glint to his optics. Six big black buttons extended from his neck down to his rotund waist.

I stood for a long minute and gazed at him. Then, with a peculiar warm glow about my heart, and a grin on my face, I went about my work, whistling.

Listen, World!

"Well, Sir, Here We Are Again."

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

HAVE you seen "You Can't Take It With You" on stage or screen? And heard Grandpaw Vanderhof's evening prayer?

You haven't? Then shame on you—for you've missed one of the loveliest and most reviving things that has ever happened to your America.

Here's the gist of the story. Under a common roof, there lives, laughs and loves the strangest human menage ever assembled . . . namely, the Vanderhof tribe—headed by Gramp, with his adoring kin and his incomparable collection of "originals." Why "originals?" Because each and every one does what he likes to do and has a perfectly grand time doing it.

Somehow, between them all, they manage to eat—well and heartily. But eating is the least of their problems. The big Vanderhof idea is—HOW TO LIVE AND LIKE IT. And do they do it? They do—AND HOW! But, omigosh, what ructions they raise with the bystanders!

That's that for the plot. And now we come to Grampaw Vanderhof's nightly prayer. Or is it a prayer? I'm not sure. It's certainly not like any prayer you and I or, I suspect, God Himself, ever heard. And it somehow makes all those other prayers seem weak and wrong.

They're very imposing—most of those other prayers. They give the Almighty a lot of advice in passionate outpourings of poetical sound. But when it comes to getting close to God . . . and feeling the clutch of His kind, strong hand . . . and the warmth of His friendly eye—why, old Grampaw Vanderhof's technique puts them all in the kindergarten class!

Grampaw Vanderhof doesn't orate. Or passionately outpour. He just stands up at the head of the evening table. It's a long, rambling, untidy affair, that table, surrounded by an amazing group of people. Young people who are just starting, eagerly and joyously, on the experiment of life. Old people who have run away from life, in bewilderment and despair. Here, in this cluttered, friendly room . . . around this higgeldy-piggeldy table . . . they have found haven, hope and happiness. And here, in the quiet space before they eat and laugh together, Grampaw reports to Headquarters.

"Well, Sir—here we are again."

That's how he begins. Not in one of those different, throaty gargles which, for some mysterious reason, seems reserved for All Highest conversations. But as though he were talking to a friend—telling that friend how the day has gone . . . summing things up . . . giving praise and alloting cusses where they are due. Not asking for help. Just taking for granted that he'll get it. And giving thanks, without words, as one old friend would to another.

Not long, that prayer. No fancy gestures or impressive pauses. Just a couple of pals talking over at the end of the day. Laughing, together, at a blunder . . . puzzling, together, over a problem . . . drawing close, for comfort and help . . . then going their way on their separate jobs, refreshed and renewed.

Grampaw Vanderhof's report to Headquarters. Maybe you would not call it a prayer. But I'm telling you straight—and I don't give a hoot who hears—here's one who listened to Grampaw Vanderhof's prayers with the tears running down her weary face and a new song whispering in her discouraged heart.

For I've been wanting a prayer like that, Grampaw Vanderhof. I've been wanting to find God again like that . . . simple and kind and near . . . as I found him once, years ago, as a little girl. I've done so many fool things since then—darn it! I've lost something dearer than words. And sometimes the shame seems too great for the standing . . . and sometimes the pain seems too sharp for the bearing . . . And always I'm daggoned lonely . . . hard up for a friend like—YOU!

So, God, perhaps you'll let another foolish wanderer come . . . and stand up just as she is, with her shame and pain in her heart . . . and say, like a couple of friends—

"WELL, SIR, HERE WE ARE AGAIN—"

(Copyright, 1939.)

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—It seemed so incredible, so horrible, that for interminable moments none of us spoke. His words bit into us like lead biting into a palmetto log. We sat there stunned, staring across the room to where a girl was sitting before a wide, high mirror at the bar.

"Yes," he was saying, "the doctors give her about six months, then . . ."

What he was telling us was that this girl had a reason, a most excellent reason for behaving as she had been for months on end, for haunting dim-lit bars and bright-lit bars night after night and all night, and always saying the same thing to the men behind those bars, "Brandy . . . more brandy . . ."

What he was telling us was that this girl was dying of cancer, this lovely girl whose name is as pertinent to the theater as moon and tides and winds are to the ocean.

SHE is a genuinely superior actress. Her father before her has been and still is one of the great figures of the theatrical and sporting worlds. Her mother is famous, a gracious, lovely lady whose name has graced Broadway marquees for years.

The daughter followed in their footsteps, but the fame she won was no coat-tail courtesy in deference to the family name. You heard her name and applauded it without thinking of her father or her mother. Only last year she went to Hollywood and scored stunningly in one of the films of the year. But she wouldn't remain away from Times Square and 52nd street and Broadway and New York. Even then she must have known, for almost irritably she shook off those who attempted to persuade her to remain.

She shook off studio lots and klieg lights and came back to her town to sit at bars and laugh a little, perhaps, and to wait—with a brandy bottle in her hand.

THAT'S what she was doing when I saw her, sitting at a bar with a bottle, waiting. . . .

I thought back to those far, dim days when her father was one of dominant figures of the sporting world. I thought back, but not so far this time, to breathless moments spent reading his strange, thrilling autobiography. I thought back to nights when her mother, always so gracious, moved through those bright, happy, timely comedies.

She wasn't even born when her father brought his first play to Broadway. She wasn't more than of debutante age when her father wrote that autobiography. She was just a little girl with pigtails, perhaps, when her mother regaled her with glamorous legends of the theater, and painted thrilling pictures of all the bright tomorrows when she, the daughter, would become a part of them.

Well, she is a part of them now. She is blood and bone of the theater.

But the doctor came to see her one day, and now she has a new part to play.

Timely Editorial

The Right to Strike.

A general tie-up of trucking in this section, growing out of a private row between factions of the same labor union, would be as grave a blow at the public welfare and as serious a challenge to authority as was the police strike which Gov. Coolidge broke in Boston on the basis that "There is no right to strike against the public safety—by anybody, anywhere, at any time."

It is true that truck drivers hauling the necessities of life are not directly employes of the state. They are nevertheless engaged in services as essential to the welfare of the people as police protection, and as necessary to order in the community. Their right to strike is unimpaired, but their strikes are a matter of so much public concern as to warrant far more than the ordinary participation of authority in their settlement. —Detroit News.

BROMFIELD CITES PERIL TO U. S. IN FRANCO TRIUMPH

Even Mansfield Will Feel It If Nazi-Fascists Dominate After War, Auther Says.

have either of them kept their word when it suited them to change. Mussolini has lost thousands of Italian soldiers and spent a couple of billion lire (which poverty-stricken Italy can't afford to spend) on the Spanish adventure.

It scarcely seems likely that a dictator practicing Fascist-Nazi morality is going quietly to take his troops home with nothing to show the Italian people but an account book disastrously in the red from any point of view. The case for the Nazis is the same, on a little less imposing scale.

So we may suppose, I think, without much hesitation that the Germans and Italians will remain in Spain. And while they are in Spain and the Spanish island of Majorca, there is a sharp knife held against the throats of both England and France.

Ten days ago I spent three hours at the embassy of Spain in Washington with the Spanish ambassador. Among other things which I saw there was a map of Spain with three submarine bases established on the Atlantic coastline. These, of course, are not Spanish. Even Franco Spain has no submarines of any value save those "loaned" by Italy; Spain under any regime has no need for submarines or navy. They are, of course, German submarine bases. If Germany chooses to use them, it is possible that no ship can leave or arrive in England.

On the Mediterranean side, Italy has taken possession of Majorca, an island that lies a few hours from Marseilles, directly in the line of French communications with her African colonies. The Fascists have fortified this island, established a naval base and constructed an enormous military air base.

These are well-known facts, not in the category of rumor. The Canary Islands, halfway across the Atlantic in our direction, are in Franco hands, which means Fascist-Nazi hands, for no one has ever supposed that Franco was ever more than a stooge. These islands may become a submarine and air base, if they have not already been converted.

With that set-up it is possible for Germany and Italy to paralyze all commerce, not only that of England and France, but our own as well . . . and whenever they choose to do it. They can dictate where we shall sell our goods. They can starve England into submission. They can dismember the French empire. And we should not forget that on the other side of us is a third gangster, avowedly seeking to dominate Asia and close to us the greatest of American markets.

That is where the situation touches every American industrial city.

It is all very well for the "isolationists" to say "Let us keep hands off. Let us keep out of other people's affairs." All right, suppose we do. Suppose we adopt the Chamberlain attitude of "appeasement." One by one the markets of the world will be closed to us. Bit by bit we will discover that there is no place to sell our automobiles, our rubber tires, our steel girders, our insulators, our electrical equipment, our stoves.

Picture what that means to Mansfield itself, to the state of Ohio, to the whole of the United States. Everyone connected with industry knows the value of foreign markets and the needs of keeping trade lanes open. It touches everyone of us. It touches our children.

Yet there are elements in this country which have been working steadily for the advancement of the Franco cause, a cause which is avowedly the cause of Hitler and Mussolini. What their motives are, I have no means of knowing.

I only know that a Franco victory cannot possibly help the cause of the American people, either economically or democratically.

Neither Franco nor Hitler nor Mussolini nor their controlled presses have made any bones of what they feel toward all democracies and perhaps our own more than any other. They have asserted, all of them, that they wish us the worst of fates, that they mean to choke our commerce and our prosperity by any means possible.

All that is out of their own mouths. No, it is difficult to understand the divided loyalties of those in this country who back the Nazi-Fascist victory in Spain.

That a European war is inevitable, whether Franco or the Spanish government wins, seems a certainty. One element is in our favor and that is the internal condition of Germany and Italy.

That these are very bad, few will, I think, deny. How bad they are is difficult to discover with any certainty in countries where the news is controlled and where any correspondent who writes anything whatever unfavorable to the regime is promptly expelled, as H. R. Knickerbocker and Edgar Mowrer and John Whitaker have been expelled. But it is obvious that where there is smoke there is fire. And the fire may be so bad that it will force both Mussolini and Hitler into war.

As a Frenchman said to me six months ago, "The trouble with being a dictator is that you have to bring a fresh head on a platter to the people every week." The heads have begun to give out and some of the ones which have been brought to the people have turned out to be bad-smelling affairs. Austria, Czechoslovakia, Abyssinia, the Spanish Adventure . . . none of these have brought anything but confusion, new liabilities, expense and loss of life. The time is drawing near when something desperate will have to be done. That is what makes war seem inevitable. And England and France have made all the concessions it is possible to make. Now they must fight or die. I am afraid that we will, whether we desire it or not, find that the battle is ours as well.

BARN DESTROYED

Two Horses Die in $8,000 Blaze Near Shelby.

SHELBY — A blaze caused by defective wiring burned a large barn on the farm of Grover Noss, Plymouth township, near here, to the ground last night. Fire Chief Eugene Schull estimated damage at $8,000.

Two horses, 14 tons of hay, a large amount of grain and farm machinery were destroyed by the fire, Schull said.

Two smaller barns and a corn crib, near the building wrecked by the fire, were saved by the Shelby fire department. The fire was discovered by Noss at 10 p. m., the blaze was beyond control on arrival. The loss was partially covered by insurance.

CHAPTER X

Gina looked lovely in black. "Come back soon, darling. Soon! I can't be unhappy about your going because we've been so happy while you were here."

It was as it had been two years ago when they had first met. Let them think him a fool for going back to her! This was the Gina he loved, warm, laughing, lovely. This was the girl he loved.

"See you soon," he said. "Goodbye, darling."

"Next week-end," she called after him.

Slowly she walked out of the station. He had not asked her to marry him. But he would. But he was going back to where he would see the lovely girl who was with him the other night. Was it possible to recapture happiness and faith after separation and bitterness?

Riding back to her apartment in a taxi, she thought, "I'll marry him. I want security and a good man's love. I'm tired of wondering what's going to happen next. I'll be something special and wonderful to him.

All that afternoon and evening Gina waited for the telephone to ring, thinking, "I'll wait for it to ring bringing good news until Kurt comes back—good news about a part in the play. If there isn't any by the time he comes back, I'll marry him as soon as he asks me. And I'll be through with the stage, through with it! I'll be Mrs. Kurt Deering, rich enough to do the things I want, to travel and entertain. I'll be safe. I—I—"

Sometime ago a woman friend had said to her, "You've got to have things your way, Gina. You're a nice person when they're going your way. You're vicious when they're not. You can be a marvelous friend but I'd hate to have you for an enemy. You stop at nothing to gain your point."

She thought now, "I'm going to marry Kurt. Nothing can stop me unless I get a new contract . . ." I . . . I . . .

Alix's life settled into a routine. She lunched either with Nancy or with Sally Thompson who talked happily of her forthcoming marriage to a young physician, or with Eddie or with Don at a table reserved for the latter at a hotel. There was no way to avoid lunching with Don; though she made excuses, many days found her at a table with him. Every one knew him, and Alix knew that the people who saw them together thought, "Don Lawrence's latest. The little blond. Works in his office." She hated it.

Her evenings she spent with Tod and Tuck. Tod was looking for a job. When she had said, "I'll speak to some of my friends and get them to give you letters of introduction," he retorted, "No, thanks. I don't want any help from your swell friends." Sometimes she met Eddie after work and went to a picture with him. He was working overtime, she knew, toward a promotion and increase in salary. Carefully Eddie was biding his time.

On Sunday afternoon she went with Nancy to see Bernice again and spent an all too brief afternoon in the charming cottage.

"How is your father, Nancy?"

"He's fine, Mother."

Always the same question and the same answer.

Driving home, Nancy stopped the roadster at the foot of a hill. On its crest was a large brick house with the windows boarded. Acres of unkempt ground were spread around it.

"That's Ivy House," Nancy said. "I was born in that house, Alix. It still belongs to father and it's still completely and beautifully furnished. There are stables in the rear. I had a pony when I was a child. There's a swimming pool. Why do people make such a mess of love?"

"She always asks for Don," Alix said.

"She still lives for him. I left my happiness in that house. Mother left hers. It's rather ghostlike now, isn't it? I try not to pass it when I'm driving." Then she asked, "You haven't seen Kurt, have you?"

Alix's lashes swept down. She had not heard from him but he was never out of her mind. That one night in New York, that almost perfect night, she had lived again and again. There was little comfort in the thought, "It might have been. We were so close to what I've always wanted and dreamed of and Kurt was so close to loving me...until he saw Gina again."

"I told you that love hurts you and breaks you," Nancy said. "One always loves more than the other and one always gets hurt."

The next Sunday afternoon Bernice called on Alix.

"Nancy has probably told you about the house we used to live in," Bernice said.

"Ivy House? Yes, we passed it last Sunday and she pointed it out to me."

"I passed it today. The boards have been taken from the windows. I think it's being remodeled. I thought perhaps you could tell me if—if Don plans to sell it."

"I haven't heard."

"Or, if," Bernice said, faltering, "he is going to be married again."

"I'm sorry," Alix said quietly, "but I don't know." How stricken and pathetic Bernice looked because the boards had been taken from the windows of the house she loved!

"I hope you'll let me know if you hear anything about it."

"Of course I will."

"Divorce is really the end of marriage," Bernice said. "But it isn't the end of love, Alix. There's a strong bond between two people who have loved and had a child and lived together. Divorce doesn't break that bond. You see, I'm still in love with Don."

* * *

Alix was bringing in a tray with a blue teapot and blue china cups and cakes that Tuck had made that morning when Tod came in. He took a step back when he saw Bernice.

Alix introduced them.

Bernice smiled and said, "You never told me you had a brother, Alix."

Tod crossed the room and closed the bedroom door noisily after him.

Confused, embarrassed at his rudeness and unfriendliness, Alix said, "He isn't very friendly. You'll have to forgive him."

"He didn't give me a chance to get a good look at him." After a while Bernice arose and said, "Come out to the country and see me, my dear. And if you hear why Ivy House is being remodeled, please let me know."

From the window Alix watched her tall, dignified figure walk through the court to the street. Her heart ached for her.

She went into the bedroom. A cigaret dangled from Tod's lips.

He turned on her. "She didn't know you had a brother! You were ashamed to have a brother who was a sailor and who's out of work! You haven't told any of your friends I was back!"

"I haven't told them because you said you didn't want help from any of them. I was waiting for you to get a job; then I wanted you to meet them. I thought you'd feel better about meeting them if you were working. I don't want to keep you in the dark, Tod."

"I don't want any help from them. And I'm sick of taking money from you. I'm sick of being an object of charity. I—I'm sorry I came back."

"You don't give charity to your own brother, Tod."

"I don't belong here. You can't make me into what I'm not. I've tried to find a job but I haven't had any luck. But I'm not going back to sea. I'm not going back to that. If you can't make money honestly, there are other ways to make it, easier ways..."

"Don't say that. Don't even think it."

His eyes softened a little. "I'm in the way and I worry you a lot. You don't make enough to share it with me. You can't go on keeping me. And I can't go on like this. I'm not getting anywhere. I've got to do something."

Tuck came in. "Telephone for you, Alix." She turned to Tod. "Have you been quarreling? I think you'd better go out until you cool off, young man. Alix is doing everything in her power to help you. Aren't you grateful?"

* * *

His eyes blazed again. "Grateful! I'm sick of that word!" But when he passed Alix, he lay his hand on her shoulder. "I'm sorry, kid." He hated himself, hated himself for thinking of brown-haired, sweet-faced Nancy Lawrence whom he had seen only once from a distance when she brought Alix home. That was a good joke all right! He and the girl who wore a coat that cost more money than he had ever seen. But she was in his thoughts and every evening after five he stood by the window, hoping she would bring Alix home, hoping to see her again...

Alix went into the living-room and took the telephone.

"Hello," Kurt said. "Will you have dinner with me at Angela Dominico's, Alix?"

She heard herself say faintly, "Yes," and heard Kurt say, "In an hour." Then she was standing alone in the room, he hand pressed against her hot face, her eyes excited. For a moment she was happy. She was going to see him again! He wanted to see her! But it was a shallow happiness, short-lived. He would never love her. She would never be more than a pleasant young friend. And he had spoiled every other man for her.

Tuck came in from the kitchen. Her smile crinkled her homely face.

"You won't be home for supper, I take it." Poor child, she thought. You were so brave and confident the first night you met him. She said. "Why do you see him, child? You're building up something that will crash and you'll be beneath the ruins."

Alix said, "But I can't refuse him, Tuck. I'm happy just to be with him. I snatch at moments and stretch them. One night I almost reached his heart."

She selected a dark suit with a short tailored coat, a white silk blouse with a pleated front, and a small black hat. Simple clothes, working girl's clothes, she thought, and remembered Gina's silver fox cape and the row of diamond bracelets on her arm. Jealous? In the mirror she smiled wryly at herself and nodded. "Yes, I am jealous. Why can't it be I?" But that question was as old as life.

She did not hear the bell ring but when she came into the living-room, Kurt was there. He and Tuck were talking and laughing as if they were old friends.

LUCK'S ALL BAD

French Laborer Falls In Pond, Crawls Out, Hit By Car.

PARIS—(INS)—Ah! Ignominious fate. Jean Pierre Demget, a 49-year-old laborer, fell into a pond one foggy day here on his way to work. Unable to swim, he nevertheless succeeded in saving himself by grabbing a log. En route home to change his clothing, he was run over by a car and died of his injuries.

'MAGIC WAND'

Remote Control Airplane New In Kiddies' Toys.

NEW YORK—(INS)—A novel remote control airplane toy which can be made to soar and turn in the air by the waving of a wand is the newest toy invention. The plane is made of aluminum metal foil which is magnetically sensitive to the wand after the latter has been rubbed on a piece of wool.

Derby Thriller

Inspired by the glorious tradition of the Kentucky Derby, "Kentucky," a technicolor production has been filmed to tell the exciting story of what happens on Derby Day. The picture will have its first showing tomorrow afternoon at the Ohio. Thrills aplenty are found in this story of the effect of the Civil war on Kentucky, and the feud which occurs between two prominent families. Stars of the movie are Loretta Young, Richard Greene and Walter Brennan. Tonight is the final showing of "Off the Record" with Pat O'Brien and Joan Blondell.

Bing's New Movie

"Paris Honeymoon" is the starring vehicle for Bing Crosby, Franciska Gaal and Shirley Ross opening tomorrow midnight at the Madison theater. It is the story of an American millionaire who is waiting to marry a countess until her divorce decree is final. While waiting he falls in love with a pretty little native, and complications develop. The double bill with "Smashing a Spy Ring" starring Ralph Bellamy and Fay Wray, and "The Arizona Wildcat" with Jane Withers and Leo Carrillo has the final showing tomorrow evening.

Adopts Papa

Herbert Marshall suddenly gets himself adopted as a father by Deanna Durbin in the musical extravaganza "Mad About Music" now showing at the Park. Deanna, who plays the role of the daughter of a movie star, invents a father, when trapped, and she presses Marshall into the role of male parent. The second feature on the Park bill, which continues through Saturday, is "Mr. Doodle Kicks Off" starring Joe Penner.

Silver In Mexico

"Under Strange Flags" starring Tom Keene and Luana Walters is the picture now showing at the New Ritz which tells of the People's Revolution in Mexico in 1914, and the complications which it caused American miners of silver. The second feature is "Swiss Miss" starring those rollicking laugh-provokers, Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy.

Western Tale

In an effort to prove he did not commit a robbery, and his father was not a suicide, George O'Brien in "Lawless Valley" portrays the character of a rough riding, two-fisted cowboy. The picture, along with "Hollywood Hotel," melody mirth-maker, is being shown at the Majestic. Dick Powell, Rosemary Lane and Hugh Herbert along with Benny Goodman and his swing band are in the starring roles.

35 ENROLL IN TRADE CLASSES

Registrations Still Open For Some Courses of Evening School.

Thirty-five adults have registered for the second semester of the evening school trade extension classes at Senior high school, it was announced today.

Classes are held each Tuesday and Thursday evenings at the high school, with members of the high school faculty as instructors.

Adults can still register for the mathematics and mechanical drawing classes, according to V. H. Oberlander, school director. Registrations also are open for the English course.

OPERATIONS AT SEWAGE PLANT 'SATISFACTORY'

Technician Tells Mayor That Experiments Have Resulted in Greater Efficiency.

James R. Collier of Elyria, the city's sewage technician, today reported to Mayor Claude M. Hunter that Mansfield's sewage treatment plant was now operating in what he termed a "satisfactory" manner.

"Operation has now attained a regularity heretofore not achieved largely because of necessary experimentation by ourselves and at the request of the Dorr company," Collier wrote the mayor.

The Dorr company is the firm that installed the areation equipment which officials claimed had not performed satisfactorily since the plant was placed in operation in March, 1937.

After a year of extensive experiments in the methods of operation, recent monthly reports by Supt. J. R. Turner and Collier indicate that the $331,000 plant has passed the experimental stage.

"It is a known fact that satisfactory operation of the plant as it exists now can, with relative ease, be made to extend through the summer months but this must necessarily be accomplished by the use of such expensive chemicals as chlorine and coagulants," Collier added.

Explains Use of Chlorine.

Turner explained today that the use of chlorine in the sewage treatment had been practiced during the experimental period and had proven "highly satisfactory" in bringing about greater efficiency in the sewage treatment process.

He added that certain bacteriological conditions during the summer months probably would call for a more extensive chlorine treatment than that being used now.

Turner said that he was making a study of the chlorine process at the present in order to continue the successful treatment of the sewage with a minimum amount of the chemical, to keep operating costs at the lowest level.

Collier's letter again called the attention of city officials to the need of a comprehensive sewer survey to protect the efficiency of the treatment plant.

"In order that the operation of the plant as designed be most economical and effective," Collier said, "I have urged a rectification of the sewer system followed by the establishment of an appropriate and systematic flushing schedule in order that the collected sewage be received at the plant in the best possible condition.

"Until that is accomplished and we know the extent of the benefits derived, it will be most difficult to premise relative to the establishment of an ultimate economical and effective year around operation schedule."

DRESSMAKER suits again occupy a big place in the bathing picture. Miss Dorothy Gould Fowler of Washington wears one of the ever-so-slightly sedate styles at Palm Beach.

"STRAPLESS" doesn't always mean evening gowns — Virginia Hall proves it at St. Petersburg in a one-piece orange and white elasticized creation.

SHIMMERY dark satin suits draw plenty of attention, especially when they're worn by such dashing beauties as Mrs. Anne Frelinghysen of New York. She's pictured at Palm Beach.

CONFESS MURDER OF MINER IN TYPICAL 'EXECUTION FASHION'

TOOELE, Utah,—A murder confession reading like a report of a Utah execution—with death mask and all—is attributed by Sheriff Alma White to a 54-year-old trapper and an 18-year-old youth, accused of slaying prospector Sherman W. Cadwell.

White said George Hayes, the trapper who sought to rid himself of evil spirits, and Vern Russell, a youth hunting for Cadwell's reported rich cache of money, confessed Tuesday's execution-murder.

The 71-year-old recluse, known as "Old Cadwell," was found tied to a chair, gagged, a black hood tied over his head, and "executed." The slaying was committed in much the same manner as Utah, the only state to use a firing squad, excutes its condemned slayers.

White said Russell charged Hayes fired two shots from a .32-.20 revolver into the aged man's head to keep him "from telling on us." Hayes' confession, the officer said, accused Russell of shooting first, with Hayes firing "the second shot so that we would both be equally to blame."

CINCH TO BAG AN ELK HERE

Just Stand In Line at Migration Line and Fire Away.

GARDINER, Mont.—(AP)—Approximately 3,000 elk were killed by hunters this winter on the Gardiner "firing line" when the Yellowstone National park herd migrated from the park to Montana grazing areas, James Weaver, game warden, estimates.

The territory is called the "firing line" because the herds must pass through a "bottleneck" country and the hunters congregate there. An open season is permitted to keep the herds within limits.

PECAN BOWL BEING BUILT

OKEMAH, Okla.—(U.P.)—The WPA is building an athletic stadium here and it is to be named the Pecan Bowl. Work on the $50,000 plant has started in the baseball park. Okemah is in a major pecan growing area.

GAS MASK ALSO HELMET

BERLIN—(U.P.)—A special helmet which will provide protection against shrapnel and falling debris in air raids soon will be available to Germans. The wearer does not come in contact with metal parts and it is light enough to be worn for a long time without discomfort.

FUNERAL SET

Mrs. Amelia Ricker of Bucyrus to Be Buried Tomorrow.

BUCYRUS — Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. at the Munz funeral home for Mrs. Amelia Ricker, 78, widow of William Ricker, 119 West Liberty street, who died at her home Thursday noon.

Rev. H. H. Glick, pastor of Good Hope Lutheran church, of which the deceased was a member, will officiate and burial will be made in Fairview cemetery, Galion.

Born in Morrow county, Mrs. Ricker moved to Crawford county while a young girl and her marriage to William Ricker took place here Dec. 4, 1879. Her husband died overseas 21 years ago.

Surviving are six children, Kels Ricker and Miss Carrie Ricker, of Bucyrus; Chester of Leesville; Lee of Chicago; Mrs. Harry Miles of Canton, and Mrs. Carl Richards of Youngstown; two brothers, George and Carl Elder of Galion, and a sister, Mrs. W. A. Dickerhoff of Bucyrus, and 16 grandchildren.

HEARSE IS FAMILY CAR

PERRY, Okla.—(U.P.)—Jess Treadway needed a pickup truck and he decided that a used hearse was just the thing. He planned to convert it into a truck. But, after the purchase was made, motorists treated him with such courtesy that he now uses the hearse for a family car.

G. O. P. CONTROLS UTILITIES BOARD

Bricker Names Clevelander to Take Place of Schaber as Commission Member.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — George C. McConnaughey of Cleveland will succeed Charles F. Schaber, Bucyrus Democrat, as a state utilities commissioner Feb. 1, subject to Ohio senate approval, returning to Republicans control of the three-member body.

Gov. John M. Bricker's announcement late yesterday of McConnaughey's appointment for six years at an annual salary of $6,000 brought exclamations of surprise from senators who knew little of him.

"So far as I know, he is neither pro nor anti-utility," said Bricker of the 43-year-old appointee who was assistant law director of Cleveland for two years, beginning in 1927, and until Jan. 1 was vice president and treasurer of the Smith Incubator company of Cleveland.

A native of Highland county, McConnaughey is a graduate of Denison university and the Western Reserve university law school. He is married and has two children. Bricker said McConnaughey aided his 1936 and 1938 gubernatorial campaigns in Cuyahoga county.

Friends of former Senator Verner E. Metcalf of Marietta said they had understood he was in line for the post but Don Power, Bricker's secretary, said Metcalf was being considered for an important state office, which he did not designate.

New 'Ripper' Legislation Aimed at Ohio Parole Board

G. O. P. SENATE TURNS GUNS ON MYRNA SMITH

Whittemore Says Bill Being Drafted to Revamp Tax Commission Also.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — Aditional "ripper" legislation aimed at reorganization of the state parole board and the tax commission may be introduced in the senate next week, it was indicated today as legislators left the capital until Monday.

Sen. Frank Whittemore, R., Summit, senate majority leader, said he understood a bill to reorganize the parole board was ready for introduction and that he intended to work during the weekend on a measure to revamp the state tax commission. It was generally considered that a parole board reorganizing measure would be aimed principally at Mrs. Myrna Smith, secretary to former Governor Davey, who was named to the board just before the former administration left office.

Civil Service Waits.

Sen. Whittemore added that a proposal to reorganize the state civil service commission, probably establishing a three-member commission instead of the two-man board, would not be prepared until later.

House and senate committees were expected to start work Tuesday on identical measures to replace the unemployment compensation commission with a bureau of unemployemnt compensation managed by an administrator and appeals board. A senate bill as a companion measure to a previously introduced house bill was offered yesterday by Sen. I. E. Baker, R., Montgomery.

In his discussion of legislation Senator Whittemore indicated little hope of a short session as foreseen by Governor Bricker and suggested May 1 as a likely quitting date for the legislature. Other leaders were much more optimistic.

Senator Whittemore said preparation of "permanent" relief legislation was being left largely in the hands of house leadership. Speaker William McCulloch explained that he and other house leaders had canvassed likely appointments to a special committee to draft a "permanent" relief bill but that no decision had been made.

At his press conference Governor Bricker said he would sign within a day or so the Maston sales tax bill which the legislature sent to his desk yesterday. This bill is the first in the administration program to end the earmarking of state taxes. Except for the annual allocation of $12,000,000 to local governments, the measure pools all sales tax proceeds in the general revenue fund.

Claims Discovery Of Germ Causing Cancer and a Cure

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—(LP)—Dr. William G. Doern, Mercy hospital research bacteriologist, announced today the discovery of a micro-organism which he believes is the probable cause of cancer and said he is experimenting with a treatment which, in a few cases, has halted the disease's progression.

He said the micro-organism—a living organism visible only through a microscope—has a special affinity for the sex cells of both male and female animals. He declined to reveal details of the treatment because its success has not been established definitely.

"I have many cancer patients I have been treating," he said. "In some, the disease has remained unchanged for seven years.

"But I need much more research to determine how successful it is."

SLAIN BY CLERK

Columbus Man Shot Down by Grocer's Son.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—An unidentified man was fatally shot early today by a grocer's clerk who, when awakened by a home-made burglar alarm, fired at the victim as he attempted to flee the premises.

Albert Thomas, grocer, and his son, Charles, were awakened this morning by the alarm. Going next door to the store, they saw a man attempting to leave by a window. The man disregarded their commands to halt, and Charles, armed with a 20-gauge shotgun, fired as the burglar fled across the street.

The man was pronounced dead upon arrival at University hospital.

50 MILLION FOR DEFENSE ASKED

Roosevelt Sends Request to Congress for Funds to Build New Planes.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt asked congress today for an immediate appropriation of $50,000,000 to be spent largely for new airplanes in the administration's national defense program.

He submitted the request in a letter to Speaker Bankhead which asked that the money be made available for expenditure during the remainder of the current fiscal year and through the year starting July 1.

Mr. Roosevelt said the money would provide, in part, for the defense program he recommended to congress on Jan. 12. At that time he suggested a $300,000,000 army airplane procurement program and said approximately $50,000,000 should be made available immediately. Today's request for the air corps was $46,442,829. The administration said that would obtain 565 new combat airplanes.

In addition, Mr. Roosevelt requested $1,490,071 for radio equipment for the signal corps and $2,067,100 for armament for the 565 airplanes.

Company's Purchase Renews Activity in Trade.

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—The United States Steel corporation's purchase of 18,000 tons of steel scrap disclosed today renewed activity in scrap trade.

It was "big steel's" initial open market scrap purchase in this district in more than a year.

About 7,500 tons were obtained for use in Vandergrift, Pa., at $15.50 for No. 1 heavy melting steel and $15 for No. 1½ grade. The balance was purchased for use at Munhall and Donora, Pa., at $15.25 for No. 1 melting steel.

Republic Steel corporation purchased a week ago 25,000 tons for use at Youngstown, O., Chicago and Buffalo, and Pittsburgh Crucible Steel bought 6,000 tons.

FARM BUREAU RESOLUTIONS HIT PHONE TOLLS, FAIR TRADE LAW

Resolutions protesting the collection of tolls by the Mansfield Telephone company on intra-county calls south of Mansfield and opposing the fair trade law which prohibits retailers in Ohio from reducing prices under the manufacturers' figures, were adopted yesterday by the Richland County Farm bureau at the close of its annual meeting in the First United Brethren church.

Members of the organization re-elected two directors at the session, choosing R. R. Howard, Cass township, and Neil S. Robinson, Madison township, for three-year terms. Officers will be elected next Monday.

The organization's resolution protesting the phone tolls followed recent action by the telephone company to collect a toll from Mansfield exchange patrons south of the city who call other exchanges in the county.

The annual financial report of the county Farm Bureau, largest in the state, showed a $178,000 decline in the organization's total volume of business last year.

Submitted to more than 300 members at the meeting by Vance Clever, manager, the financial report revealed that last year's business amounted to $567,379 as compared with $746,000 in 1937.

Despite the marked decrease in total volume of business, the county unit showed net earnings of $9,673 last year, an increase of about $2,000 over 1937.

Total assets of the county organization at the end of the year were $133,409.

Praising the county Farm Bureau for its growth in recent years, Murray D. Lincoln, Columbus, secretary of the Ohio Farm Bureau, told the group yesterday, that "you are setting the pace for other co-operative organizations in the state."

"Farm co-operatives," he said, "are a damper on monopolies and can do a great deal to prevent wars such as we are having now in Europe.

"Most wars are fought for economic reasons, and when an organization like the Farm Bureau helps to return profits to the people and offers fair price competition, there is not so much danger from the accumulation of great wealth in a few hands."

County Agent George B. Ganyard spoke on the activities of the county extension office, asserting that the objective of the extension department is "to help rural families determine what their problems are and then find ways to solve them."

PAY WITH LIVES AT SING SING FOR N. Y. MURDER

Lehman Ignores Petition for Leniency But Spares Two Others in Slaying.

(By United Press)

OSSINING, N. Y.—Three young toughs from New York's lower east side were executed last night. They killed a policeman. Thirty thousand persons had petitioned Gov. Herbert H. Lehman to be merciful because they had grown up in the squalor and slums and "never had a chance." The governor didn't agree.

But 12 hours earlier, he had commuted to life imprisonment, the sentences of their companions, Philip Chaleff, 27, and Isidore Zimmerman, 21, strictly on the facts of the case. He said there was reasonable doubt of the degree of their guilt.

Typical 'Slum Child.'

Dominick Guariglia, 19, publicized 10 years ago by a settlement house as a typical child of the slums, Arthur Friedman, 22, and Joseph O'Loughlin, 24, died one after the other in Sing Sing prison's electric chair.

They killed Detective Michael Foley during a hold-up in New York City in 1937.

Friedman went first, entering the execution chamber quietly, eyes closed, accompanied by a rabbi. Guariglia, who was 17 when Foley was killed, carried a picture into the chamber. Smiling, he kissed the crucifix and then turned to one of the guards and said, "I'm pretty young to have to die."

O'Loughlin walked into the room with Father John McCaffrey, Catholic chaplain, who handed him a crucifix. He kissed it and said, "With a smile, Father." He faced the witnesses and said: "I'm glad the other boys got a break. If I had a big nose I would have got a break too."

Then he sat down, was strapped in. His last words, to Executioner Robert Elliot, "Let her go, Bob."

Elliot closed the circuit and he died.

50 CERTIFIED

WPA Jobs Urged for Women Ineligible for Pensions.

The names of 50 women who are not eligible for social security aid or old age pensions have been certified to the county relief office for WPA jobs when more projects are started in the county, Mrs. Katherine McMichael, county welfare director, said today.

Included in the group were a number of women who applied for aid from the county welfare department after they were laid off recently by the WPA, Mrs. McMichaels said.

Dismissal of mothers by WPA has boosted the waiting list at the welfare office to 65, but there are no additional funds in sight to provide help for the applicants, the director added. All of the applicants are eligible for funds under the aid for dependent children program, set up under the social security act.

The county contributes one-third of the funds for the program, and the state and federal governments the other two-thirds.

MRS. MARY POST DIES AT AGE 86

Widow Stricken After Lingering Illness; Funeral Monday.

Mrs. Mary E. Post, 86, widow of John F. Post, died at her home, 34 Douglas avenue, today after a lingering illness. Mrs. Post was born in Morristown, N. J., Oct 10, 1852, and had resided in Mansfield 45 years.

Two sons, Elmer H., and W. E.; a daughter, Margaret of Mansfield, three grandchildren and three great-grandchildren survive. She was a member of the First Presbyterian church.

Funeral services will be held at the home at 2 p. m Monday with Rev. David Roller of the First Presbyterian church officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Editor of Church Organ Complains About Press, But on a Weak Premise

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Repeatedly in his lectures on the morality of the newspaper, given at the University of Notre Dame and published by the university, Richard Reid, the editor of the Bulletin, a Catholic publication, complains of sensationalism and salaciousness in American journalism. Sensationalism is a synonym for yellowness, and proof that yellowness is fading out of our press may be found in any public library which keeps old files.

I write from hearsay, but I hope I will not be seriously accused of bearing false witness in recalling an old folktale of the newspaper business to illustrate the point.

It is said that back in the days when we had papers that were really yellow one of them ran a huge head on Page One reading "10,000 dead!" and beneath it, in very small print, the sub-head "in Brooklyn cemeteries," followed by a paragraph to the same effect.

But if news is sensational it is difficult to see how a paper can be asked to treat it otherwise. That need imply neither exaggeration nor fakery.

There was a little exchange of words on this point one night during the war when the first American troops entered the line and Major Frederick Palmer, the chief censor, issued orders that the stories of the correspondents must not be sensational, to which Bobby Small, the Associated Press man, replied that the story itself was the most sensational, from the standpoint of American interest, in all his experience.

But I am not trying to avoid the truth of the charge that some papers have been and still are guilty of overplaying sex stuff, particularly in pictures wherein the offenses of sensationalism and salaciousness run together.

Mr. Reid says such conduct is an abuse of the freedom of the press which "may become in public opinion such a danger to the morality of the nation that suppressing of that freedom will be considered the lesser or the least of the evils." He sub-quotes John Temple Graves, of the Birmingham Ace-Herald, as saying that a free press is not a publisher's right, but his responsibility, and Arthur Hays Sulzberger, of the New York Times, as saying that this freedom is not given to the press but to the people.

However, as Mr. Reid says, advertising has improved in character, and although people nowadays speak more broadly and the printed matter likewise is bolder, I know from experience that editors are much more insistent on accuracy. Therefore I believe there will be a trend toward, let us say, modesty or decency, to anticipate the resentment which he foresees.

It is a question of taste as well as of morals. In conceding that advertising has improved in character, he fails to account for the fact that nowadays papers publish and the people see without question drawings and (in the magazines) photographs of shapely women modeling underwear which would have been considered shocking even in the days when one prominent New York paper ran ads for prostitutes and brothels.

The popular boiling point seems to be higher, or perhaps it is that the people are so much more moral—or could it be that they are just blase? Yet, a photograph which passes without comment in an ad in a magazine, if played on page one of a daily newspaper on some pretext, would be offensive and would cause protests.

I suppose much depends on intent and treatment. In the ad the picture has a legitimate purpose, but its appearance on Page One just for the purpose of dressing the page and selling papers would cause trouble.

Perhaps that is one reason why such a thing just doesn't happen in that way. If we use such pictures in the news or feature space we find a reason, although pictures have been printed which no reason can justify in a press which rebelled against the strip-tease.

But when Mr. Reid gives consideration to a state of public opinion which would abolish freedom of the press he entertains thoughts of a condition in which other liberties would be likely to vanish, too, including freedom of speech and religion. In countries where one dies they all die, and this remark that there is no authority to pass on the fitness of a journalist for a position in which he may contaminate souls is a reminder that neither is there any legal authority to pass on the qualifications of men who claim to represent and speak in the name of God Almighty.

There are clergymer too, who have been guilty of sensationalism, misrepresentation and incitation to hatred, disorder and persecution, and while I grant that they are in the minority, I insist with equal vigor that indecent and dishonest papers also are vastly outnumbered by the good ones. I claim that the press of this country can look any other element in the eye.

Hollywood Speaks—

Gossips Won't Let Her Alone

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"When I was just a high school kid, I fell in love with a boy in my class. We were both 16 and became engaged, deciding to be married after we graduated when we would both be 18. Then the boy was killed in an automobile accident, and I discovered I was going to be a mother.

"My father left home. He divorced my mother, saying she didn't look after me properly, and has since married someone else. Mother stood by me through it all, actually selling her clothes and furniture to pay my bills.

"My son is now 5 years old, and a sweeter, lovelier child never lived. I've had a pretty hard time, but I've gone straight, in the face of persecution by poeple who ought to understand and sympathize. I have a good office position and support my mother, my son and myself. We have a nice little flat, but we live in a small town where people seem to have no interest but gossip.

"Two years ago, I met a man who knew all about my son and me, and we became engaged. But he was deluged with anonymous letters, people called him up on the phone and told him what he already knew.

"Lately he seems to think that marying me would injure his prospects. He is no longer fond of my little son, doesn't like to see the boy around, when he comes to the house. He says I love my son more than I do him, and that if we had children, my son would always come first.

"Now if I had not been submitted to this neighborly persecution, everything would have come out all right, because in the beginning, while he knew all about my past, he was only kinder to me from all I had been through. Why can't people leave me alone?

"He has suggested that I put my son in an institution which, of course, I will not consider for a moment.

"What has turned him around is that when I have gone out with him, girls with whom I went to school have cut me dead, though these very girls, some married and some unmarried, drink and pet to the limit, while they look on me as if I were the lowest of creatures. I'm utterly discouraged, and I doubt if it would be wise for me to marry my fiance, considering how he feels toward my boy.

MARY."

After reading your letter the question arises, can these young women who cut you dead and seemed bent on trying to destroy your happiness, have ever considered the text "Let him who is without sin, cast the first stone?" In the way of indulgence they deny themselves nothing, apparently.

Their cruelty goes back to the jungle. They are uncivilized. You maintained a home for your mother and son, and have done your best for your child. If you had thrown him in the gutter or left him in a doorway, they would have understood that, but they can't understand the heroism of the thing you have done in protecting and acknowledging him before all the world.

It seems to me the young man to whom you are engaged has failed lamentably. At first he made you believe that this tragedy of early youth made no difference. Now he's changed, not from any innate conviction, but because people with a medieval point of view—wild women with no standards of behavior—have cast stones at you.

My bit of worldly advice is save your pennies, and try for a position in a bigger city. Meantime, forget this over-cautious fiance.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, Jan. 28.

Mixed influences hold sway on this day, inciting conflict and bafflement. There are indications of a definite and calamitous downfall, with disfavor in the eyes of superiors, employers or those in power, while at the same time there is presage of a sudden and surprising rise to prestige and good fortune, through an unlooked-for stroke of luck. Much is at stake, but sound judgment, right principles and the friendly intervention of influential persons are likely to turn the tide favorably.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year in which there may be many conflicting forces at work, detrimental ones assault the stability of work, fortune and social position. At the same time there is presage of the intervention of powerful interests, suddenly and quite unpredictable, turning the tides of favor and fortune by a surprising coup, and this should be captured by wisdom, integrity and sagacity rather than intrigue or collusion.

Develop Novel Uses For Molasses

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

EACH YEAR more and more novel uses for molasses in cooking are discovered. One woman who hails from New Orleans, and who therefore goes in for molasses in her kitchen in a big way, recently served a molasses luncheon. It was the outcome of a wager and the result was so good that we asked for the recipes. Molasses appeared in the stuffed baked oranges, the veal curry, the salad and in the dessert. Of the veal curry, special mention should be made. Strange as it may seem to include molasses, with its early American heritage, in a far eastern dish like curry—history gives credence to the combination. But to get back to our recipes!

Baked Stuffed Oranges is not a difficult dish to prepare but it is the sort of dish that wins plaudits from the most critical guest. Wash medium to large oranges. Parboil until skins are soft and bitterness is gone from skins. Cut a slice from the blossom end of each orange and scoop out much of the pulp. Stuff oranges with pieces of orange pulp, grapefruit, pineapple, dates. Place the oranges into a casserole to which water and molasses have been added. Baste the oranges often so that skins and insides will be thoroughly coated with the syrup. Just before removing oranges from oven place shredded cocoanut on tops of oranges and bake for a few seconds. Oranges should be served hot.

In Veal Curry.

The veal curry requires 2½ lbs. veal, teaspoon salt, 3 medium sized minced onions, 6 minced stalks celery, 2 minced apples, ¼ cup curry powder, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ½ teaspoon ginger, one lb. rice, ½ teaspoon tabasco sauce, tablespoon Worcestershire sauce; 1 cup cold water, 2 well beaten egg yolks, 2 tablespoons butter, ½ cup pure New Orleans molasses, 2 cups meat stock or 2 boullion cubes.

Cook veal, onions, celery and apples. Into a frying pan or sauce pan, pour meat stock and stir in curry powder. Simmer 5 minutes. Add molasses and other seasoning and meat, and cook for 20 minutes. Pour in the water and cook for 5 minutes stirring until thickened. When ready to serve add egg yolks and heat to boiling, stirring constantly. Serve in hot rice ring. This recipe yields about 8 portions. Serve curry with chutney, shredded fresh cocoanut, chopped hard cooked egg yolks, chopped egg whites, chopped crisp bacon and Bombay duck. Serve bean wafers and Indian bread if you want to do the thing right.

Molasses Mint Salad requires ½ cup chopped fresh mint, one cup water, ½ cup vinegar, 3 teaspoons molasses, ⅓ teaspoon salt and juice of ½ lemon. Bring these items to boiling point. Strain and cool. In the mixture marinate thick slices of fresh pineapple. When ready to serve place pineapple on a lettuce leaf and sprinkle with fresh chopped mint. In the center of pineapple slice place a ball of cottage cheese sprinkled with paprika.

Steaming vegetables reduces the loss of minerals and vitamins. It is also an economical way to cook vegetables as several different ones may be cooked at the same time.

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"You darling nit-wit!" she apostrophized her husband. "Telephone the Lansfield, which is owned lock, stock and barrel by your revered pa-pa, with every last employe of the place doubling in brass as 'detec-a-tives,' as Katie would put it! Have you gone out of yoh haid?"

"I will," Noel replied, smiling good-naturedly at her, "if you don't stop trying to take it off."

"That has all the earmarks of a pun, and also a dirty crack," his wife told him with an answering grin. "But the fact remains that you can't telephone the Lansfield. Can he, Auntie Madge?"

"He distinctly must not," I said. "And there is no need for his doing so. After we get back to the Lansfield, Noel," — I addressed him directly—"I shall have Miss Whitlock go out to her friend's apartment and telephone you at the farm Don't mention any names, not even hers. You know her voice, and she knows yours, so there will be no danger of either of you talking to the wrong person. But she will be able to assure you of our safe arrival, and she can relay a message to us from you if you couch it in sufficiently cryptic terms."

"Here's a thought!" Mary interrupted. "Why can't Noel send letters to me in care of Miss Whitlock at the address of that friend of hers?"

"There's no reason why he can't," I returned promptly.

"And," Noel said eagerly, "Why can't Mary give Miss Whitlock letters to be mailed to me at the farm?"

"I'll have to think over that angle, Noel," I told him, with a swift disturbing vision of the princess Olina's beautiful face, in which I was not sure how much mischievous duplicity lurked. "Just give me a minute."

A knock at the door punctuated my sentence, and when Noel opened it. the clerk with the bill came in, and there was no further chance for discussion. But when we were in the taxi outside. I gave him the answer.

"Mary can give her letters to you to me," I told him. "I will enclose them in mine to Mrs. Underwood, and she will hand them to you. And one other caution I must give you. Have Mrs. Underwood enclose your letters to Mary inside hers to Miss Whitlock. She will address all her letters to me to Miss Whitlock at her friend's apartment. I must not risk the possibility of a single leak at the hotel."

"Of course not," Noel agreed promptly, "but"—with uncertainty in his voice—"do you fear a leak at the farm?"

I swallowed hard, for I wished, above all things, to avoid mentioning my real fear that the impish mischief of the Princess Olina might betray the correspondence of Noel and Mary to that archtyrant, Philip Vertizen.

"Not a deliberate leak, Noel," I said quickly, "nor espionage such as certainly is present at the Lansfield. But there is no use taking a single chance when camouflage is so easy."

"Of course you're right," he capitulated promptly, "and I'll turn all my letters over to Mrs. Underwood."

"Good!" I commended "Now, one thing more. Don't let anyone except Mrs. Underwood know that you're writing to Mary—anyone, mind, not even Mr. Underwood."

I wafted a mental apology to Harry Underwood, soul of discretion and master of diplomacy, for this slur upon him. But I could not say to Noel before Mary:—"I fear Olina's discretion." That situation was too delicate and involved for such a comment.

Noel's eyes were puzzled as he fixed them upon me. But his response was prompt.

"I'll remember," he said. Then he looked at his watch.

"Isn't it time for me to be taking that other taxi?" he asked.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

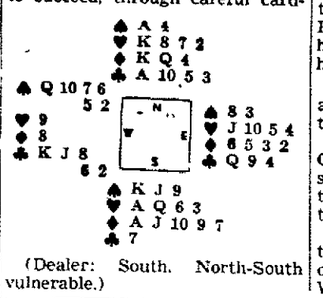
"The Authority on Authorities"

TAKE A DEEP FINESSE

FNESSES OF CARDS as low as sixes and eights are not necessarily fancy play based on plenty of cheek or gall. In some situations they are marked as certain to succeed, through careful card-reading based on the bids and plays already made. Such finesses are nothing like as hazardous as an ordinary finesse of a queen from ace-queen when there is no indication regarding the location of the king.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

Here was one time that a player gave too accurate a count of his hand during the bidding. After South's 1-Diamond, West bid 1-Spade. North 2-Hearts, South 3-Hearts, West 4-Clubs, North 4-Diamonds and South now invited slam with the Blackwood convention bid of 4-No trump, asking his partner about aces. West cut in with 5-Clubs, but North managed to show his two aces with 5-Hearts, since 5-Diamonds would have shown one and a pass would have shown none.

South next bid 5-No Trump to ask about kings. West interrupted this with 6-Spades, whereupon North revealed two kings with 7-Clubs, as 6-No trump would have shown one and a pass none. South then chose 7-No trump as the contract.

The spade 6 lead was won by the 9. South then ran five diamonds and led to the heart K. West's bidding had indicated six spades and five clubs, and he had shown two singletons. East therefore held all the other hearts. So the heart 6 was finessed successfully when East failed to cover, and the contract was made, with four tricks in hearts, three in spades, five in diamonds and one in clubs.

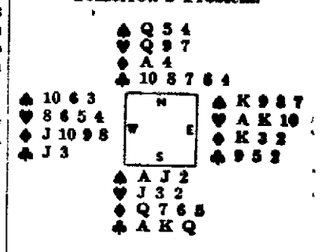
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

With the heart 4 led against South's 3-No trump contract, East winning with the K, what card should he lead to the second trick?

THANKS TO QUICK-FREEZING- FIELD-FRESH STRAWBERRIES TODAY!

BIRDS EYE

LIKE HAVING YOUR OWN BERRY PATCH!

There are only two ways to enjoy strawberries at their luscious best.

One way is to pick them from the berry patch yourself.

The other way is to get a box of BIRDS EYE QUICK-FROZEN Strawberries NOW!

For only the miracle of quick-freezing can capture the glorious flavor of PLANT-RIPENED Strawberries!

Even fresh berries you buy in season do not have this full flavor (they're usually picked green, have to ripen in transit).

P.S. Birds Eye QUICK-FROZEN Strawberries are washed, sliced, ready to serve. One box equals a full quart of whole berries. Serves four. Complete satisfaction—or your money back.

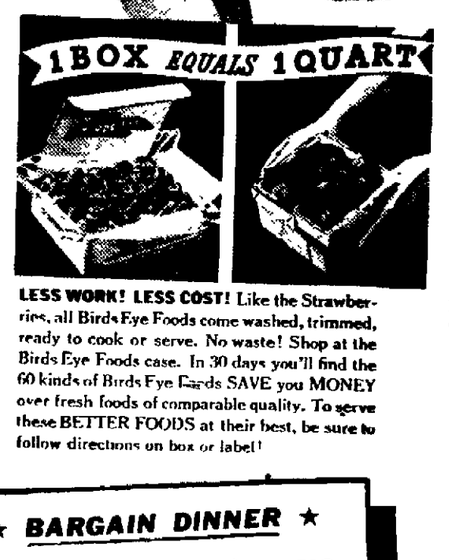
A New World of Flavors!

Science has discovered that if you freeze foods FAST enough, they retain ALL the flavor, ALL the freshness they had the moment the terrific cold was applied!

Don't confuse the exclusive process of Quick-Freezing used for all Birds Eye Foods with ordinary slow-freezing.

For this patented process is as modern as television—and as scientific . . . It brings you a new standard of freshness—and flavor! And a higher vitamin content than average fresh foods.

Selecting only the very highest quality, Birds Eye brings you vegetables, fruits, fish, poultry, and meats—always at the peak of tenderness and flavor. There are 60 different Birds Eye QUICK-FROZEN Foods.



LESS WORK! LESS COST! Like the Strawberries, all Birds Eye Foods come washed, trimmed, ready to cook or serve. No waste! Shop at the Birds Eye Foods case. In 30 days you'll find the 60 kinds of Birds Eye Foods SAVE you MONEY over fresh foods of comparable quality. To serve these BETTER FOODS at their best, be sure to follow directions on box or label!
